COOLIDGE WAS INFORMED OF FACTS SUNDAY

Special Investigator Submits Report To Senate Oil Committee

SINCLAIR ARRIVES HERE

Returning Magnate Talks Of Everything Except Teapot Dome Scandal

Washington, D. C.—A report that Attorney General Daugherty has bought and sold Sinclair Oil stock is under investigation by the senate oil committee.

Such a report was submitted by a special investigator, and was laid before the committee in executive session. A check-up of brokers' books to establish whether it is true is now in progress.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, author of the resolution proposing an investigation of Mr. Daugherty's administration, said Thursday he understood information indicating that the attorney general had dealt in Sinclair stocks had been laid before the president.

"Information came to me through a special investigator," said Senator Wheeler, "indicating that Mr. Daugherty had dealt in Sinclair Oil stocks and I understand that those facts were laid before the president."

It can now be disclosed that this information formed the subject matter of last Sunday's conference between Chairman Lenroot and Senators Wheeler and Walsh, Democrat, Montana, and Atlee Pomerene, a special government counsel in the oil case.

An outgrowth of these discussions, Republican senators held a conference Wednesday and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the party floor leader, and Senator Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvania, were delegated to inform the president that in the opinion of the Republican senate organization Mr. Daugherty should retire from the cabinet.

What Mr. Coolidge replied is not revealed. Both Mr. Lodge and Mr. Pepper declined Thursday to discuss even the purpose of their last conference with the president and White House officials remained silent.

The story as it has reached senators is that the investigations were comparatively small, and resulted ultimately in sale of the stock at a loss. After the Sunday afternoon conferences, Chairman Lenroot and Mr. Pomerene visited the White House. Senator Lenroot said Thursday that certain information which had been brought to his attention had been disclosed.

RED WOMEN JUDGES DRUNK WITH POWER

Former Member Of Russian Courts Says Judgments Are Too Severe

Moscow—Russian women judges who are sentencing people to death for petty larceny are drunk with power, according to Liza Finerman, former judge in Petrograd, who is here to complete her legal training. The severity of these women judges is psychological, she says.

"It is typical of the mental attitude of the women in public life here," Russian women, she asserts are the social, beautiful type while American women are the wholesome, substantial variety.

"Russian women have sacrificed everything for the new Russia," she states. "They are in the front ranks as fighters, on the street corners declaiming for the new Russia and all the professions, the law, medicine and letters are filled with them and they being recognized. There are many women judges. Any number are holding public office. The recently appointed ambassador to Scandinavia is a woman."

HEAVY WITHDRAWALS CAUSE BANK TO CLOSE

By Associated Press
Wells, Minn.—The Wells National bank with deposits of approximately $1,000,000 was closed Thursday and A. B. Smith, national bank examiner, took charge of the institution. Recent heavy withdrawals were responsible for the closing, it was said.

Since the closing of the First National bank here six months ago, the Wells National has been the only bank in town. Its president, L. N. Oles, dropped dead two weeks ago. The bank's capital stock is $75,000 and the surplus is said, $25,000.

Tut Diggers Are Dogged By Bad Luck

By Associated Press
London—The Countess of Carnarvon, interviewed by the Daily Express on annulment of the license for excavation of Tut-Ankh-Amun's tomb which was re-granted her after her husband's death, expressed complete astonishment at the action of the Egyptian government.

"Such a step is quite impossible," she said. "The license cannot be revoked after my signature is attached. Moreover no government would be so discourteous as to take such action without first informing me of their intentions. I have received no intimation that such a course was intended."

The representative of the Daily Express who attended the opening of the tomb in 1923 writes:

"The discovery of the tomb has been dogged by bad luck and bad temper. Howard Carter stands before the archaeological world as a partly wronged, partly foolish figure. He has done all the hard work and done it well, but the government of Egypt handed him a rope and persuaded him to hang himself."

The writer assumes that the Egyptian government does not intend that "one fragment" of the treasures from the tomb shall come to England.

G. O. P. CONTROL OF HOUSE ENDS WITH COALITION

Situation In Senate Is Almost Identical As Insurgents Join Democrats

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924 by The Post Pub. Co.
Washington—The Republicans have lost control of the house of representatives. Whether they can regain it by effective leadership is doubtful. The insurgent Republicans from the west have combined with the almost solid Democratic strength and the result is that the first important piece of legislation sought by the Coolidge administration has been bastioned and the Democratic tax plan substituted.

Over in the senate an almost identical situation prevails, for the combination of western Republicans and Democrats has been sufficient to override the regular Republicans, as for instance in the resolution calling for the resignation of Secretary Denby.

The Democrats emerge from the house debate a radical party—at least their plan is the least favorable to the people seeking a reduction of surtaxes on large incomes. The so-called radical insurgent Republicans were willing to accept a 40 per cent surtax instead of the Democratic plan for 44 per cent but the regular Republicans wanted 35 per cent and as a consequence the Democratic proposals have been inserted in the revenue bill which was before the house Wednesday.

INSURGENTS HOLD BALANCE
The fate of tax legislation rests with the insurgent groups in the house and senate who must finally be won over before the differences that naturally arise in conference between the senate and house can be ironed out and a measure presented to the White House for signature.

The Democrats in the senate for the most part favor the plan of Representative Garner of Texas, the man whose plan has been successful in the house. But there are a number of Democrats from eastern states who will be under considerable pressure to vote for lower surtaxes.

They are conservative at heart and when the final showdown comes the Democratic defections from the Garner plan may offset the few Republican votes that go to the Garner plan or one of its similar changes.

By Associated Press
Hongkong—While the Chinese steamer On Lee carrying more than 200 passengers, was cruising Wednesday night from Hongkong toward Kowloon, pirates aboard suddenly opened fire on the main deck. Chief Officer Martin immediately directed Indian guards to prepare to defend the bridge.

With all lights extinguished, Martin guided the ship back toward Hongkong. Rockets fired from the vessel attracted a police launch which escorted the On Lee into Hongkong harbor. A large number of suspects were taken from the ship, the police terms of 10 years each on these counts, this sentence to be additional to the 10 years imposed for her part in her husband's death.

Mrs. Schaudé was sentenced on her youngest child's birthday. The boy, with his elder brothers and sister, observed the anniversary of his birth in the courtroom listening to his mother sob forth for the fifth time in public during as many months the sordid story of her killing of his father and the attempt upon his own, his brother's and his sister's lives. He was spared the scene of the sentencing of his mother to prison, as the children were led from the courtroom as Mrs. Schaudé was carried from the witness stand to her chair to receive the judgment of the court.

Mrs. Schaudé was on the witness stand for two hours and a half telling the story fully, freely and without hindrance from attorneys. It was what might be termed her last request, before effacing her personality under a prison number, to explain without harassing the sinister story of the last two years of her life.

Elkhorn—Mrs. Myrtle Schaudé, Whitewater "poison widow," was sentenced Wednesday to serve 20 years in the state prison at Waupun for the poisoning of her husband and her attempt last fall to poison her four children.

Mrs. Schaudé, whose trial was scheduled to begin Wednesday pleaded guilty to a charge of first degree manslaughter in connection with her husband's death and was sentenced to serve 10 years' imprisonment on this count.

The woman also entered a plea of guilty to each of four counts which charged her with attempts to poison her children on Sept. 21, 1923. ## MERCHANTS ARE SET FOR 2-DAY DOLLAR SALES

Thousands Of Shoppers Are Expected To Crowd Appleton Stores

The stage is set for Dollar days, Friday and Saturday, of this week, and from the interest being shown in this big retail feature—it is expected that the stores will be crowded from the minute the doors are opened in the morning until they are locked at closing time.

The chief outdoor sport of shoppers Friday and Saturday will be seeking the Dollar day stores which will present a wealth of bargains such as Appleton has never before witnessed.

In another section of The Post-Crescent appears many pages of advertising outlining a very extensive list of articles and prices which here have never been equalled. All along the line—in every field of merchandise—the stores have cut the prices of scores of special items to the very lowest in order that these Dollar days will long be remembered.

Local stores enjoy the patronage of thousands and thousands of buyers for many miles north, east, west, and south, but even this long list is expected to be increased Friday by

LABOR SECRETARY ATTACKS ASYLUMS

By Associated Press
Chicago—An attack on the conduct of poorhouses and orphan asylums as places of "filth, horror and cruel inhumanity" was made Wednesday night by James J. Davis, secretary of labor, in an address before the American Fraternal congress.

He cited an instance of a county which failed to levy a tax sufficient to maintain its dependents. The overseer abandoned the place and left the inmates living in filth and on the verge of starvation. He urged the restriction of emigration declaring that most industries are already overmanned.

Marion Star Owners Sue Vanderlip For $600,000

By Associated Press
New York—Roy D. Moore and Louis H. Brush, joint owners of The Marion Star, are plaintiffs in federal court against Frank A. Vanderlip, retired banker for $600,000 alleging slander and libel as the result of the banker's purported utterances in an address at Ossining on Feb. 12. Three separate causes of action, each asking $200,000 damages, are cited in their petition on file Thursday.

The Vanderlip allegedly and maliciously charged Brush and Moore with bribing former President Harding "to fail to perform certain of his official duties as president and that the bribe consisted in the payment to the former president of $500,000 in the purchase of the Marion Star, which was more than twice its fair value."

The Vanderlip speech, it was charged, was an attack upon the integrity of the late president by implying that the sale of his newspaper was involved in the naval reserve oil lease investigation.

Contracts Totalling $542,863 For Schools Awarded By Council

Committee Of Six Aldermen Will Study Plan For Additional Wards

PACKARD SUCCEEDS MEYER

Two Ordinances For Renaming Streets Submitted To Council Committee

Business of vital importance was transacted by the common council Wednesday night. Besides accepting contractors' proposals on the construction of two junior high schools the council purchased a park in the Fourth ward, received three proposed ordinances, and started a movement for union system of schools, more wards and an inquiry into the advisability of allowing an alderman to serve also as a member of the county board.

Two separate resolutions had been drafted by Theodore Berg, city attorney, at the request of persons interested in more wards for the city and greater representation on the county board of supervisors. One of these resolutions authorized the board of public works to investigate the advisability of creating more wards in Appleton and combining the office of county supervisor with that of one of the aldermen. Another resolution called for the same investigation but entrusted a committee of six aldermen with the work.

WILL NAME COMMITTEE
Upon motion of Alderman H. R. Beske, the second resolution was passed by the council. It remains for Mayor Henry Reuter to appoint an alderman from each ward to the committee. The committee has been instructed to report at the next council meeting.

Three proposed ordinances were introduced at the council meeting, one was to amend the city zoning ordinance, and two were on the instruction of a system for numbering buildings. None of the ordinances was read, but all three were referred to the ordinance committee.

The city attorney was instructed to commence proceedings for opening up Union-st. from Second-ave to Randall-st. and to widen Randall-st. between Drew-st. and Fredoway. A petition was received for a sewer on Lemnaw-st. from Oppeches-st. to Brucke-st.

He practiced law in New Orleans; served as assistant city attorney; was a member and speaker of the Louisiana house of representatives and chairman of the state Democratic convention in 1908.

WHAT THE COMMON COUNCIL DID

Awarded contracts for junior high schools. Purchased park in Fourth ward. Started movement to create more wards.

Ordered investigation in the legality of making one alderman from a ward also a county supervisor.

Started inquiry in union system of schools. Received two ordinances for numbering of buildings.

Appointed George H. Packard to succeed August H. Meyer on water commission.

Three Appleton Firms Among Successful Bidders Of Big Jobs

$130,000 LEFT IN FUND
Sufficient Money Is Left From Bond Issue To Carry Out Program

Construction of Appleton's two junior high schools, according to contracts awarded by the common council Wednesday evening, will cost the city of Appleton $542,863 without including the cost of installation of steel lockers, the lowest bid for which was approximately $8,500. All three locker bids were rejected, however.

Three Appleton contractors were awarded four of the jobs. Langstadt Electric company will do the electrical work in the east and west side schools. W. S. Patterson company will do the plumbing in the east side school and Wenzel Brothers have the plumbing contract for the west side school. On the heating contracts, W. S. Patterson company was outbid by the Downey Heating and Supply company, Milwaukee.

$130,000 LEAVY
There is only $2,000 difference between the cost of one school and that of the other, for construction of the west side school will cost $270,553, and the east side school will cost $272,410. The combined cost of $542,863 still leaves a leeway of more than $130,000 for cost of sites already purchased, remodeling the Fourth ward school for junior high school purposes and equipping the junior high schools. The total heating cost is $88,710, plumbing $31,557, electric $14,572.

The contracts were awarded at 10 o'clock Wednesday evening after the council had resolved itself into a committee of the whole and went into executive session for more than an hour.

ELIMINATES 4 ROOMS
The proposals accepted by the council are all based upon the alternative revised plan which eliminates four rooms from each building, namely the rooms intended for manual training and domestic science departments. These departments will be moved to other parts of the building. A few other changes had been made in the plans and deductions offered by contractors were taken advantage of.

Following are the successful bidders for heating, plumbing and electrical contracts: General construction—East side school, J. C. Nelson & Son, Minneapolis, $206,500. West side school, Hoepfner-Bartlett Company, Eau Claire, $208,924.

Heating contract—East side school, Downey Heating and Supply company, Milwaukee, $42,610. West side school, the same firm, $41,500. Plumbing contract—East side school, W. S. Patterson company, Appleton, $15,714. West side school, Wenzel Brothers, Appleton, $15,743.

Electrical contract—East side school, Langstadt Electric company, $7,356. West side school, Langstadt Electric company, $7,286.

ELECT G. H. PACKARD

George H. Packard, manager of the Appleton Superior Knitting company, was elected a member of the Appleton water commission to succeed August H. Meyer who resigned several weeks ago. The name of Mr. Packard was submitted by the nomination committee, and Mr. Packard was elected by acclamation. No action was taken toward filling the vacancy on the zoning board of appeals from which Conrad Verrick resigned recently.

The Class A license, or permit to sell non-intoxicating beverages, of Ray Stark was revoked by the council Wednesday night, as a result of Stark's conviction on the charge of selling illicit liquor.

Two bids on the old boat buildings in Pierce park were received. Thomas Warren offered to pay $75 for them, and the Appleton Motor Boat club offered $10 above the bid of the highest bidder, but with the condition that the buildings be allowed to remain where they are. Both bids were referred to the street and bridge committee.

Several bids on a building on the East side Junior high school site, as advertised by the board of education, were referred to the board of public works.

Permission was granted to Appleton Lutherans for the use of Pierce park on Sunday, June 1, when a sagerfest will attract thousands of visitors from the Fox river valley.

Petitions for tax refunds on 1924 taxes were submitted by the First National bank and the Citizens National bank. R. M. Connelly, city engineer, also submitted his findings on the condition of Appleton bridges.

BUSINESS SUFFERS IF MAIL IS LOST

Serious Damages Can Be Averted By Exercising Care In Addressing Mail

The postoffice department is not the only loser through illegible, inadequately and incorrectly addressed mail. It is pointed out by the postal authorities in a bulletin sent to all officers in the country in connection with the observance of Better Mailing week now in progress. The mailer and the addressee both share in the losses, and business suffers as a result.

Solicitation for business orders cannot produce results if the customer does not receive the solicitation. If he receives it a few hours late a competitor may get the order which otherwise would have gone to the mailer. Often the solicitation does not contain the street address of the advertising firm and then the customer's order is subjected to the same directory service and resultant delay which befell that of the advertiser. Any business or commercial house knows that the delay to an order often means cancellation, as well as the loss of future business. The moral is that street address should be placed plainly not only on all letterheads and envelopes, but all advertisements printed in newspapers and magazines.

Many of the largest and most progressive firms in the country have long since realized that while, at one time, to appear street-addressless may have given an air of importance, this condition no longer exists. Accordingly, their exact locations now are registered on order blanks, letter heads, envelopes and all advertising.

King's Sons Will Be Dukes

London — Prince Henry and George, the third and fourth sons of King George, may soon be dukes.

The king is expected to call upon his sons and say to them:

"Aiste, noble dukes."

And the two, having bent their knee in homage, will rise with new titles. Being a duke doesn't mean much, except to admit one as a full member of the House of Lords.

To make his children royal dukes is one of the few prerogatives of the crown which the king can perform without consulting anybody.

Prince Henry, 24, may be the Duke of Edinburgh and Prince George may have the dukedom of Kent, Sussex or Gloucester.

WATERPOWER USERS OF VALLEY READY TO AID RIPARIANS

Land Owners Petition Congress
To Investigate Drainage
Ditch Project

Waterpower users of the Fox River valley are in sympathy with riparian owners in their efforts to eliminate the damage caused by high water in the Wolf river and Lake Winnebago, according to T. W. Orblson, engineer for the waterpower users, and will do all they can to assist the land owners in minimizing their losses. The riparian owners have petitioned congress for help in digging a canal or ditch which will divert water from the Wolf river to Green Bay during the high water season.

"I understand that Congressman Lampert of Oshkosh has introduced a bill in congress providing that a fund of $25,000 be set aside by the rivers and harbors committee to investigate this plan of diverting water from the Wolf river," Mr. Orblson said.

WILL HELP RIPARIANS

"The waterpower users are in sympathy with riparians and will do all they can to promote their interests and at the same time safeguard their own interests."

"High water as arranged there was a few inches above 40 on the crest of the Menasha dam in high water. The government prescribed a few years ago that the limit should be 2 1/4 inches, the average for a long series of years previous to when this order was filed, in case it was possible to hold it at 2 1/4 inches."

"A year ago last March we had a meeting at Oshkosh of the committee representing riparians and the committee representing waterpower owners and we agreed to hold it for 1923 to 15 inches above the dam. We were successful in doing that."

"At a meeting at Shiocton last summer the riparians expressed themselves as being satisfied with the efforts the waterpower users had made."

"For the coming year no agreement has been entered into and we are making every endeavor to prepare the lake by putting five additional sluices in the dam and by drawing down the water in the lake during the winter months to hold it within 15 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam in high water the coming spring."

"We have a permit to draw the water down to 15 inches below the crest of the Menasha dam. At the present time we have used the 15 inches except about 5 1/2 inches."

"We are hoping to get permission to draw an additional six inches below the 15 inches. Then we will have the water down at the time of the breakup to the limit prescribed by the United States engineers."

R. F. GOODMAN, BADGER LUMBER KING, IS DEAD

Marquette—Robert Franklin Goodman, 79, millionaire lumberman, died Wednesday morning, following a brief illness. He was born at Pike Mills, Pa., in 1844. His father, Owen Bruner Goodman, was of Puritan stock. Mr. Goodman was graduated from "the little red schoolhouse" at Wellsborough, Pa., and enlisted from that place in 1862 as a private in Co. A, One Hundred forty-ninth Pennsylvania volunteers. He was wounded at the battle of Gettysburg in 1863 and disabled for further army service.

Following the war he worked for the Lehigh Valley road and became division superintendent of that road. Later he came to Wisconsin and became one of the most prominent lumbermen of the state.

At the time of his death he was president of the Sawyer-Goodman Lumber Co. and vice president of the Goodman Lumber Co., Goodman, Wis. power of Count Michael of Croatia, an agent of the enemies of the allies. The count holds the rough draft of a treaty between England and Croatia which the earl has declared is destroyed. To get this treaty is the task of Anthony Trent, a role assumed by Earle Williams. He goes to Croatia on the most dramatic action takes place.

An avalanche, a thrilling leap from a tree to a moving motor car, a jump from a precipice into the ocean are some of the thrills furnished by this interesting story. An exceptionally strong cast, including Kathlyn Adams, Geoffrey Webb, Eric Mayne, Emmett King, Mona Lee, John Stepping, Max Asher and Walter Rodgers, was engaged for the production.

"GOVERNOR'S LADY" IS MIGHTY PICTURE WITH MANY THRILLS

Whether you have any aspirations toward the State House or not, don't miss "The Governor's Lady," the William Fox screen version of the David Belasco play, which was shown for the first time at the Elite theatre. You will be mightily thrilled and entertained by this photoplay, which is a popular success because it contains all the elements necessary for an entertaining picture.

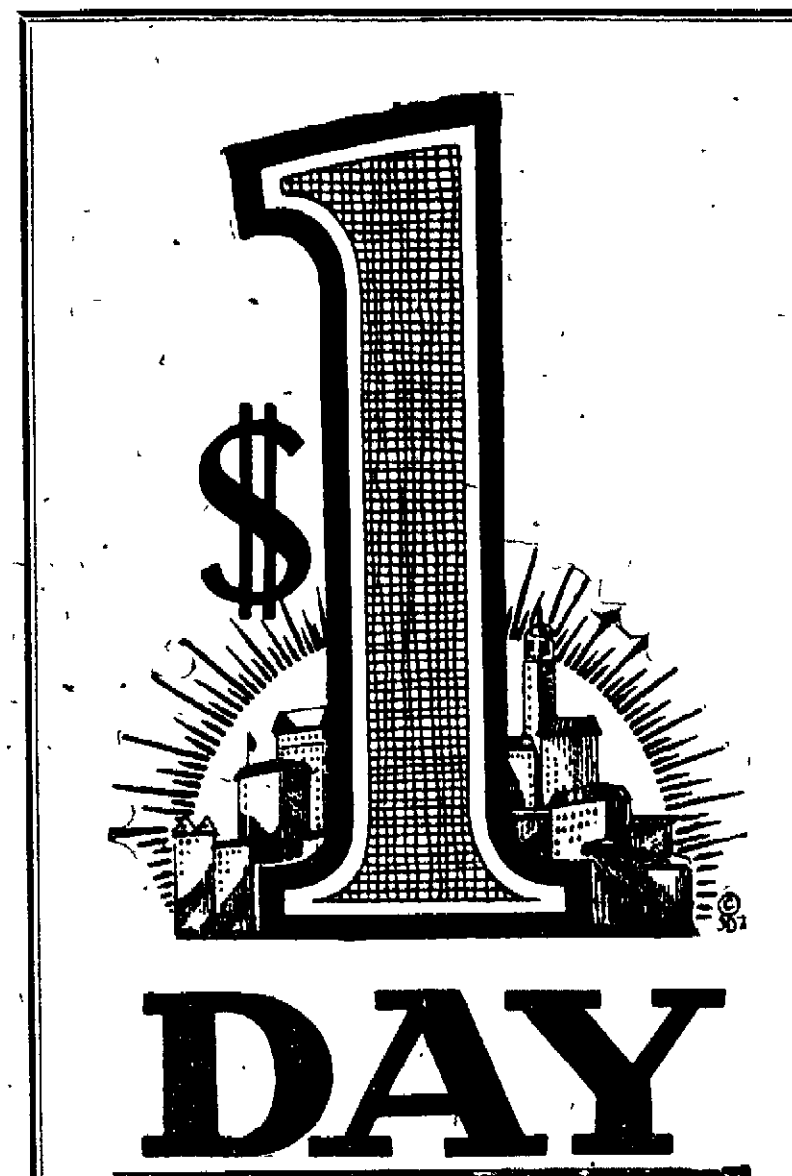

Every American is interested in the struggle of a man from a lowly position to one of power and fame. The majority of the big men at the head of big business or in high political offices were self-made and came from the ranks. In many cases the drama of their private lives is much the same as the theme of "The Governor's Lady."

Harry Millarde, who directed "It Winter Comes," also directed this production. Robert T. Haines and Jane Grey have the leading roles. The other principals in the cast are Ann Luther, Frazer Coulter and Leslie Austin.

COAL OUTPUT AND PRICES

Operators and miners indicate by remarks which they make as to the situation in the bituminous coal fields that it may be difficult for them to reach an agreement on wages and working conditions. The plain facts are that too much capital is invested in mining properties and there are too many miners. Companies which have invested in coal properties wish to operate them, and miners want employment. Neither capital nor labor, it seems, is prepared to take cognizance of actual conditions, unless we except President Davis of the miners, who admits the facts candidly and offers logical remedy.

How long, is the important question, will the public and industry be willing to pay exorbitant prices for coal in order to protect excess capital and labor in coal mining? It is only a question of time when the demand for coal and competition among producers will determine which mines shall close and how many miners must seek employment in other industrial fields.

A reorganization of the soft coal industry so that only enough mines were operated and enough men employed to liberally supply the market would necessarily reduce the cost of production. Although nearly twice as many miners are employed as are needed, it does not follow that producing costs could be cut in two by any means, for the number of men could not be reduced quite in proportion to the excess employed, but it would materially reduce the labor element of cost, and to such an extent, that the price would be lower to the consumer, at the same time permitting the operators to pay a more liberal wage to the men who remained in the industry. There is no reason why under such an arrangement the coal business should not be as competitive as it is at present, in fact, we should say it would be more competitive.

Every year, or every time, there is a controversy between the operators and miners over working conditions, and the industry is tied up or threatened with a tie-up, the facts about the industry are paraded before the public, but nothing is done. Some sort of an unsatisfactory compromise is worked out and coal mining is resumed. The fundamental causes of trouble are not removed, and the public is assessed, in an addition to an already high price of coal, an extra sum to pay the cost of a strike. It is an absurd situation. It is a source of constant public irritation and it has many evil effects upon our politics and the state of our industrial system. Thus far our politicians have not been able to solve the problem, or to even offer any worthwhile proposals. The Federal coal commission, so far as beneficial results go, was an entire failure. The question is, is the country and its coal consumers without a remedy and must this unsatisfactory condition continue indefinitely?

TESTING HONESTY

How many of the people, whom you pass on the streets, are absolutely honest? "Four out of five!" answers Solomon Ulmer. He recently demonstrated this by an odd experiment. Ulmer, head of a mortgage company in Cleveland, is raising money for a new tuberculosis sanatorium in Los Angeles.

He picked 1,000 names at random from his local city directory. To each of these he mailed this letter, with a $1 bill enclosed:

You can keep this dollar if you want to, but we hope you won't. We hope you'll send it and another one to me as your subscription to the fund. We believe everyone is really kind and generous. We are investing $1,000 to prove that belief. Have we made a good investment? What is your answer?

Out of the 1,000 who received a letter and $1 bill, 600 returned the dollar with at least one more, 200 sent the dollar back alone, and 200 kept the dollar. The 200, of course, are not dishonest as the law views such things. They were told they could keep the dollar if they preferred. But an appeal was made to them in a good cause and they were put on their honor, to repay. At any rate, at least four out of five are absolutely honest, and three out of five are generous as well as honest.

Cases like this give us renewed confidence in our fellowmen at large—especially the strangers whose elbows brush ours on the street. As you follow the daily news and read of hold-ups, confidence games, swindles and burglary, maybe you occasionally get the notion that the world reeks with dishonesty. Not so. The dishonest cases are the exceptions. That's why they are news—a record of the unusual. Honesty is so common and general, that cases of it are not news.

NOT AS THEY USED TO BE

Inventors, like poets, editors and novelists, formerly were classed as men without business judgment. In a lawsuit the issue is raised that a certain inventor lacks business acumen.

Times have changed. The modern inventor either forms a company and procures a large block of the capital stock, or contracts for big royalties, and soon becomes a millionaire. Writers nowadays pay as much attention to the business phase of their profession as to the higher intellectual, and they successfully manage to save something for the latter years of life.

We are impressed by the fact that some of the men who are supposed to lack business acumen have quite lucrative ideas of the value of oil properties.

THE OVERCROWDED BRAIN

Dr. Arthur L. Holmes, professor of psychology in the university of Pennsylvania, tells you not to be afraid of overcrowding your brain. He computes, roughly, that no man uses one-third of his brain. This seems to be a hard deal for each of us. Everybody takes a little pride in his intelligence and is rather inclined to believe that he has a superior mind, and, all things being equal, including opportunity, he could show off to amazing advantage. Everybody is a little bit afraid of working his brain to excess and is careful not to overtax it by learning or thinking too much.

Dr. Holmes classifies inventiveness or originality as the highest type of mentality. The brain which functions most efficiently either produces new ideas or devises means of adapting old ideas to new purposes. Even those who use their brains effectively along original or productive lines do not do so to more than one-third of capacity. Most of the time their brains are employed in ordinary functioning.

The professor is right. Think of the most successful men of your acquaintance and measure their intellectual acumen according to his theory. Are they especially capable or efficient? The brain is less likely to become fatigued than any organ of the body. What we call brain fatigue or mind fatigue is really symptoms of physical exhaustion. The brain itself never tires. Did everybody use the brain to one-third of capacity or efficiency, or put the brain to good work, the general intellectual standard and average would be higher.

We use the brain enough, but not properly. Most of us do not know how to think. It is impossible to be inventive without being capable of thinking and accustomed to thinking. Minds which excel are minds which are trained to reason easily and accurately. They give recognition to imagination, but manage it by rational procedure. Thinking minds are quick to grasp and weight new ideas and to apply these original ideas to some practical use.

OUR IMPERVIOUS HIDE

Physiology is still the most unpopular of all branches of knowledge that pertain to human welfare. Our school authorities, seeing how the wind blows, make a huge success of the teaching of physiology, so that when we leave school, if there is any one thing we are quite certain about it is precisely how many bones there are in the human body that is, counting the skull as one solid bone.

In a recent talk about some minor skin trouble I took occasion to speak in a dash of physiology, by asserting bluntly that no medicine, food, nutrient, substance or chemical is absorbed by the unbroken skin. That is to say, nothing of the kind penetrates the skin when applied or rubbed upon the skin and therefore no systemic effect can be obtained in that way.

This elicited a vigorous reaction. Numerous impertinent questions were submitted. The confident way of the superficially educated individual who knows so many things which ain't so.

Various "well known" if not scientifically accredited "authorities" were quoted or cited to confound me. One of the most indignant motorists cited even an "eminent authority," who is now serving a sentence in prison for fraud. I cannot give serious attention to impertinent questions, for that just loses us in the woods. But there is a pertinent question asked in a courteous way by one correspondent:

Why do physicians so frequently prescribe ointments with mercury in them in the treatment of constitutional syphilis if no constitutional effect can be obtained by absorption through the skin?

That did nearly drive me through the roof, but I have kept in training for years for just such wallop, and I bounced right back with the disappointing physiological truth. The systemic effect unquestionably produced by mercurial ointments or rubbing in of a mercury ointment is due to the volatilization of the mercury by the heat of the body and the inhalation of sufficient to produce the systemic effect. This is the well proved physiological truth about inunction.

Painters and others exposed by occupation to lead, likewise absorb the lead from volatilized fumes or dust in the air which they inhale, minute particles of lead being swallowed. Not from their hands except as the hands carry lead to their mouths.

Thirst cannot be assuaged by immersing the body in water, for no water is absorbed through the skin. Neither is alcohol or any alcoholic solution absorbed through the skin, though there is grave danger of poisoning by inhalation when wood alcohol is applied to the skin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Well Known Physician

Numerous correspondents who brush aside the rules and ask for advice about individual cases become confidential along about the third page and tell me that they have consulted a well known physician who thought, said or did one and so.

Answer: The well known physician by the name of Cook was sentenced to a long term in prison recently. But probably he is not the one all these correspondents refer to.

Dandruff And Poor Hair Growth

What is the condition that causes dandruff and makes the hair scrawny and poor in growth? This keeps my scalp clean by washing it once a month. My daughter, aged 12, also has dandruff.—Mrs. W. G. M.

Answer: For many persons once a month is often enough to bathe any part of the body, I think, but when there is considerable dandruff, it is generally advisable to have a shampoo about once a week, or when the condition is oily or greasy, two or three times a week for a while. Send a stamped self addressed envelope for general instructions on the care of the scalp and treatment of dandruff. I believe the trouble is of bacterial origin and that it is spread by infection, through ordinary contact with persons who have it and through the common use of hair brushes and combs.

The maiden in galoshes
May be protected well,
As through the mud she slobos,
When comes a rainy spell,
But, golly, and some goshes!
She looks—but who would tell?
—M. P. S.

ROLLO: New Londoners are putting in heavy order for hip boots these days. They're thinking of spring and their old friend, the Embarrass river, which usually embarrasses the town and dampens its spirits and other goods. Now if the fire and the flood only would have come at the same time!

—JASPER.

Mavrus, the composing foreman rises to protest against that sally about "When a tea pot has reached the boiling point, it begins to sing but a kink named Fall is no tea pot." He avers that the statement should have been worded thus: "A T-Pot begins to sing when it is full of water; but who the heck wants to be a T Pot?"

ROLLO: My "Sweetie" sent me a big red heart Valentine's day. "What did she mean?"

"I'm the kind of girl
Who gives and forgives;
Are you a man
Who can get
And forget?"

—BUDDY.

One of the county supervisors wondered how long it would take the committee on poor and the committee on insane accounts to find out that they were being referred to by way of abbreviation as "the poor committee" and "the insane committee."

In one of our favorite mags we observed the ad of a correspondence course promising to teach one to dance in a single evening, and there are a number whose Terpsichorean attainments suggest that they learn that way, observes Flossie the Flap per.

The linotype operator who sets the society news is hoping that Mah Jongg will never become popular with Appleton society. It is so much easier to set "brook" and "bridge."

PASSING THE BUCK

ROLLO: "Clerk" is another name for dumbbell, so if you are a clerk in an office, you are a dumbbell. This chance of some bears documentary evidence in any filing case. Every mistake the boss makes, every order he loses, every time he gets in bad and wants to pass the buck and, in fact, every instance where somebody has to take the blame, it's the clerk. Have you not heard the old canard, stereotyped expression, "It was an error on the part of the clerk?" Well, that's the dumbbell nonentity of the office, but who'll want to call the boss a dumbbell anyway?

—LIZIE the Stego.

Good Field For French In Persia

(Camille Vergniol, in L'Asie Française)

We must be doing something about Persia.
Persia, no less favored by nature than many another country, has resources which she lets foreigners, especially the British, exploit less from sympathy or gratitude than because of habit and weakness. Persia is tired of her oppressive godmother. Persia does not want to become a second British India.

Persia has no reason for aversion to or fear of France. She would surely receive favorably any offers or advances on our part. But we do not make offers. We even decline Persia's advances.

We ought to have a Persian policy which would not bring us into conflict with Great Britain or Russia but would, nevertheless, secure for us advantages in Persia. France now, is to Persians no more than a distant name or concept. France must be come to them a living, tangible thing.

Secondly, we ought to found schools in Persia, and try to attract young, wealthy, intelligent Persians to our country. We could make good officers, lawyers, engineers and professors of men who will hold the destiny of their country in their hands.

Third, France should risk some capital, send engineers, business men and agents of all sorts into Persia. We must show initiative, audacity, firmness, perseverance.

I know very well we have more urgent things to worry about and greater plans which need attention. Persia is far away. Persia may wait Persia is a quiet spot. But I answer: big affairs should never exclude small ones, big business should not crowd out small business. Besides, Persia is a territory of no mean importance; Great Britain has realized that.

Every year the Shiite Persians, followers of Mohammed, celebrate the anniversary of the death of Ali, saint, martyr, hero: The life, sorrows, sacrifice and death of the martyr are shown on the stage much as the life of Christ was portrayed in Europe in the middle ages.

This passion play of the Shiites is followed by another play in which important personages of the orient are shown. Among the characters is a single European non Mohammedan, the minister of France. He personifies the entire Christian world and may be recognized by his top hat. He rises suddenly, professes to be deeply stirred, won, converted, and confesses to the public that he believes in Shiism! Enthusiastic applause from the audience.

France ought to do something about Persia.

Turkey Would Be Truly Western

(Fletcher Johnson, in American Review)

Under the leadership of Mustafa Kemal Pasha, who shows himself to be a man of real genius, Turkey has dismissed her last sultan and established herself as a republic, with a policy of "occidentalizing" herself in the completest possible manner, so as to gain, she hopes, full equal recognition among the powers of Europe.

How long the blood of the exterminated Armenian nation will have to be drying upon her hands before she receives such recognition is an interesting question. Meanwhile, however, two circumstances stand assured. One is, that the Turk's return to Europe is confirmed with a little stronger than any he has enjoyed for 100 years. The other is that in thus dispensing with the "commander of the faithful" Turkey has gravely compromised her place in the Moslem world and perhaps sacrificed her primacy in Islam.

It would be a curious turn of fate if, after being restored to sovereignty in Europe by Great Christian powers which feared that otherwise she would make trouble for them among their Mohammedan subjects, Turkey should lose the ability thus to foment trouble or to proclaim a Jihad.

A curious turn of fate yet, if the lessons of history be true, probably the best that could happen for the tribe of Othman.

A. Major M. A. Moses says: "It is said that with intimate friends Mrs. Grant usually referred to the General as 'Mr. Grant.'"

Q. What is the present status of Capt. Alfred Dreyfus? Was he completely exonerated? M. S. R.

A. Major Alfred Dreyfus is living in retirement in Paris. The French Court of Cassation reopened the Dreyfus case on July 12, 1905, and quashed the verdict of the Rennes court-martial, declaring that the Bordereau was the work of Count Esterhazy, a French officer. Dreyfus was restored to the rank of major on the thirteenth of July. Mayor Esterhazy fled the country and died under an assumed name in London, 1923.

Q. What industries have the most strikes? D. E. C.

Q. Has there been any great left-handed golf players? H. F.

A. The American Golfer says that there has been no great left-handed player, and the percentage of left-handed players is very small. Some few left-handers are very good players, but many are below the average. One reason named for this is that about 60 per cent of those playing with left-handed clubs are really right-handed, and should be playing that way.

Q. What is the derivation of the word "violinello"? D. R.

A. The word is a reduced form of violone which was the great medieval double-bass viol. Violinello is the diminutive, not of violin, but of violone.

Q. When was the first fork brought to America? K. E.

A. In 1633, the first fork was brought to this country. It was in a leather case with a bodkin and knife. The owner was Governor John Winthrop.

Q. Where was Robert Louis Stevenson's body buried? J. R. B.

A. The body of Robert Louis Stevenson is interred on the mountain side of the Island of Vallima, in the South Pacific Ocean.

Q. If a refrigerator is in a room at freezing temperature, will keeping ice in the box keep food from freezing? J. B. B.

A. The Department of Agriculture says that the insulation of the ice chest would have more to do with preventing the contents of the refrigerator from freezing than the ice would. Furthermore a pile of water or a pile of bricks would be more effective than the ice, because it would take a longer time for these articles to cool.

Bring Three Artists For Recital Here

Music Department Of Womans Club Will Present Program Of Indian Music

The music department of Appleton Womans club has arranged for a joint recital of Edna Wooley, soprano, Thurlow Lieurance, composer-pianist, and George B. Tack, flutist, for March 7. The recital will be held in the Lawrence Memorial chapel. Wm. H. Nolan is assisting the music department.

Thurlow Lieurance has spent much time among the Indian people, and realizing that much might be done with their songs, has written many compositions. Edna Wooley is the wife of Thurlow Lieurance and sings his Indian songs. George B. Tack, assisting flutist, has a curious collection of Indian flutes, and the concert presented by the three artists is something out of the ordinary.

Carrots Make Most Lasting Kind Of Rouge

The most inexpensive and lasting rouge for both blondes and brunettes is carrots. They should be taken frequently at meal time for they are rich in iron that helps to make glowing complexions.

But perhaps your family is tired of boiled and creamed carrots. If so, here are a few interesting old world recipes that home economists students at the University of Wisconsin have found in foreign cook books.

In Russia and Flanders they often add sugar to bring out the delicate flavor of the carrot.

FLEMISH STYLE

Scrape, slice and cook one quart of carrots in one quart of boiling water to which has been added one teaspoon of salt until tender; drain. Heat two tablespoons of fat, and one small onion, brown lightly, add the carrots, season with one teaspoon of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of white pepper. Shake well over the fire for 10 minutes. Add one and one-half cups cream, cover and simmer for one-half hour, add one teaspoon chopped parsley and serve hot.

RUSSIAN STYLE

Make a sirup of one cup of sugar and one cup water by boiling 10 minutes. To this sirup add two cups sliced carrots, which have been previously browned in two tablespoons hot fat or butter. Cook all together until carrots are tender. Brown in oven and serve hot.

Other continental dishes for fried, baked and scalloped carrots suggest new flavor combinations.

LEMON CARROTS

Old carrots are best. Pare and dice; simmer in salted water until tender, but not pulpy. Drain, return to the fire, and for one pint of carrots add one teaspoon minced parsley grating of loaf sugar, one-half teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon butter, and juice of half a lemon. Heat thoroughly, shaking the dish now and then so that each piece of the vegetable will be well coated with the mixture.

FRIED CARROTS

Cook with soup. When done cut into thin slices. Fry one onion in a tablespoon of butter, add carrots. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, minced thyme, parsley and bay leaf. Fry 10 minutes and serve hot.

BAKED CARROTS

Boil until tender. Cut lengthwise. Lay out in pan, dot with butter and bake until brown.

KAHN EULOGIZED IN RESOLUTIONS OF ROTARY, C. OF C.

Express Esteem For His Community Service And Regret At His Death

Two organizations of which the late Julius Kahn was a member have adopted resolutions expressing esteem for the service which he gave and regret because of his death. The Rotary club resolution was read by Dr. E. H. Brooks at the luncheon Tuesday noon at Conway hotel, and the chamber of commerce statement was read at the forum dinner at Hotel Appleton Tuesday evening.

Mr. Kahn, who died Saturday and was buried Monday, was a member of the Rotary club and was chairman of the acquaintance committee of the chamber of commerce forum.

The Rotary resolution reads: "The silent messenger visiting our community has ushered from our midst a faithful, trusted servant, an unselfish, indulgent father, a true, loving husband, a loyal, dependable friend, a patient, considerate employer and a respected, valuable citizen."

"The vacant place at the Rotary table will soon claim as its occupant another member, but the void in the hearts of the devoted companions of him who has left us will remain unfilled so long as memory lasts and so long as the sensibilities claim as their composite structure—human affection."

Another eulogization will grace this board to smile at mirth or frown at disappointment, but the quiet, genial, thoughtful expression of Julius Kahn has so thoroughly engrained itself within the shrine of fellowship and true friendship that neither time nor distance nor circumstance can accomplish its erasure.

"At the counsel table another may be as wise as he, will analyze with others the problems encountered in the application of the golden rule, but the quiet thought, sober judgment, patient bearing and untiring energies of our departed friend will endure so long as his host of friends who knew him best shall be privileged to live."

"Few men possess the qualifications which call out confidence, the quiet acceptance of mental stress, or the uncomplaining endurance of physical discomfort as characterized our good friend and brother, Julius Kahn."

"To emulate his life were an enviable endeavor, to have known him as friend, an opportunity. May we now think of him as having accepted the call to a higher, greater service and may each of us gather through his passing the inspiration radiated from his life of unselfish service."

The chamber of commerce eulogy read: "The board of directors of Appleton Chamber of Commerce desires to record with profound sorrow the death of our beloved fellow citizen and co-worker, Julius Kahn, who has diligently and sincerely served the civic, educational, industrial, and commercial interests of our city."

"Inspired by the ideals of public service, Julius Kahn served the Appleton Chamber of Commerce as a member of the industrial and civic committees, and at the time of his death was chairman of the acquaintance committee of the members forum."

"He was original and logical in thought, earnest and sincere in expression, his views on community work. He always commanded the thoughtful consideration of his co-workers. His genial and pleasing personality combined with tact and sound judgment won for him not only the esteem of his associates, but also their warm personal regard. His

Drug Store Cowboy Takes Place Of Hard Egg Of Footrail Times

Birmingham, Ala., and Points South—Enter the drug store cowboy and his compatriot the frappe flapper! Of genius new, these two have grabbed the local scenery, as the last word and stir in a world of troubled complexes.

In soda fountain tete-a-tete you can see them most any day flanked alongside the marble counters of department store apothecary shops. Attacking cauldrons of harmless nectar is the specialty, and solving current problems with eglet of elder statesmen, the sideline of said cowboys and their petticoated allies.

All through the land of mammy death, therefore, brings a feeling of personal loss to those colleagues and friends in the chamber who had the privilege of working with him.

"Therefore, in recognition of faithful service and the high esteem in which he was held by his fellow workers, we the directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, do hereby express our deep feeling at the great loss the community and the organization has suffered from his going, and extend to Mrs. Kahn and the family our deepest sympathy in this, their dark hour."

"It is ordered that a copy of this resolution be made a part of the permanent records of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce."

Dr. William O'Keefe has gone to Milwaukee to attend the Marquette dental clinic.

CARNCROSS OPENS BUILDERS' COURSE

Numerous Questions Arising Over Selection Of A Site Are Answered

The new Home Builders club at the Y. M. C. A. got a good start Tuesday evening, in spite of numerous counter attractions. The speaker was R. E. Carncross and his subject was, "The Selection of a Site."

Among the questions, he said, to be considered in the purchase of a site are: Is the property in a section that is improving? What is the proximity to church, school and transportation lines? Is the lot of adequate size to allow the proper placing of the house? Is the location and value of the lot such as to justify the expenditure required for the house one desires to build?

Can one get a clear title and abstract of title? Why is an abstract of title better than a certificate of title? Is the lot improved? Has it sewer, gas, water, electric light, street pavement and sidewalk? Is the pavement paid for? Has the lot the desirable surroundings to make a desirable home? Is it in the factory district?

Mr. Carncross discussed all these questions and others in a comprehensive presentation of his subject. His talk was followed by an informal discussion during which many questions were asked and answered.

The date of future meetings was changed to 7:30 Monday evenings. George H. Beckley will be the speaker Monday evening, Feb. 25. His subject will be "Financing a Home."

FARMERS MEET TO TALK OVER USE OF FERTILIZER

A meeting of farmers interested in commercial fertilizer has been arranged by the Apple Creek shipping association to be held in Stammer's hall on the evening of Tuesday March 4. Lee Vandred Linden of Chicago, representing the fertilizer department of the Anaconda Copper Mining company of Anaconda, Mont., will speak on the use of commercial fertilizer.

DUELS AMONG CUBANS RARELY PROVE FATAL

By Associated Press Havana—The habit of fighting duels still flourishes in Cuba, if the newspapers of its capital city are to be believed.

Such methods of settling private quarrels are illegal here, however, and the newspapers never say that a duel has been fought. They usually publish an account of the trouble between the principals, giving their names, and add that "In an examination of edged tools," Mr. "So-and-so" was wounded. If the reporter came right out and said a duel had been fought the police probably would be rather unpleasant in seeking to have him give evidence.

These duels are rarely fatal, for although most educated Cubans are keen swordsmen, the general custom is for the duel to terminate when one combatant draws blood.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble. Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Blightington, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

BLAME CITY GOVERNMENT FOR CAR BREAKDOWN

A serious situation impends in Akron, Ohio, a city of 208,000 people, because of the refusal of the city administration to accede to the demands of 30,000 voters that the street car company be empowered to charge a fare which will make operation possible. The city is depending entirely upon busses and jitneys and they are inadequate to take care of Akron's people. According to Appleton people who are familiar with the situation, Akron is completely demoralized because of the breakdown in transportation, and drastic action against the city administration blamed for the trouble is contemplated. No action can be taken, however, until the administration has been in office six months.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. ## STUDENT WHO TRIED TWICE TO END LIFE, IS DEAD AT MENDOTA

Former Lawrence Student Dies
From Nervous Breakdown
Suffered Here

By Associated Press
Janesville.—Louden Heenan, 24, who suffered a nervous breakdown while attending Lawrence college, Appleton, a year ago died at Mendota, early Thursday, according to word received by brothers here. Heenan attempted suicide a year ago at Appleton by slashing both wrists with a razor and jumping into the Fox river.

Louden Heenan twice failed at attempts to take his life while in Appleton. He was a sophomore at Lawrence college.

Last summer Heenan attempted suicide by cutting an artery at his wrist. Failing in this attempt, he jumped into the Fox river near Riverside cemetery. He was observed at the time by small boys and Sidney Shannon, deputy clerk of courts, immediately summoned the police.

Heenan was a recent immigrant from Ireland, and his only near relatives are brothers at Janesville. He became discouraged over his studies while at Lawrence college and this led to his nervous breakdown and his attempts at suicide.

Bok Prize Peace Plan Inspired By Memory Of Brother Killed In War

Charles H. Levermore Cherished
Ideal From Childhood—Prize
Converts Modest Circumstances
To Riches

Wins Award

CHARLES H. LEVERMORE

Brooklyn, N. Y.—A soldier boy killed in the civil war is the real winner of the Bok peace prize.

For it was child's memory of him that led Charles Herbert Levermore to develop the plan that won the $50,000 award with another $50,000 awaiting the end of a nation-wide referendum.

Of more than 400,000 ballots already cast, 88 per cent favor the plan, according to an announcement of Esther Everett Lape, member in charge of the policy committee.

So Levermore, a school-teacher, author, of very moderate means, may soon be a rich man. But he does not expect to change his way of living much.

Even when he had the $50,000 check tucked away in his pocket, after the presentation in Philadelphia, he went back home in a day coach.

HOW HE STARTED

In an exclusive statement he told how he came to work on his plan; paying tribute to the Union soldier, whose death set him thinking about world peace.

"The longest roots of my interest in international relations, and world organization for the common welfare," he said, "are embodied deep in childhood memories of our civil war."

"In the spring of 1861, I was nearly five years old. I saw my brother, aged 18, march away as a soldier in the ranks of the Eighth Connecticut Volunteers."

"I learned to read in haste so that I might be able to follow for myself in the papers the story of what he and his fellow soldiers were doing."

DEATH SHATTERED FAMILY

"Before long I was asking questions about the reasons why they fought. An old soldier's son, under Rev. William Goodell, lived near me, and took pleasure in telling an inquisitive boy about the injustices of human slavery and the political policies of slave-owning oligarchies."

"These experiences and the events of the time awoke my imagination and stimulated what has become a life-long devotion to the study of history. The drama that was being written affected all of the boys in our community in a greater or less degree and even shaped many of our games."

"In 1882 my brother lay dead in a hospital in North Carolina."

A pause—an eloquent tribute to a memory of 60 years.

"The blow," Levermore went on, "shattered the family life in many ways."

"In the formative years that followed for me, it helped to crystallize thought around the ideal for which I believed he had survived—and died—such as national unity, impartial justice, democracy."

"As the years went on, a strong sense of loyalty to these national ideals, as I conceived them, became the inspiring source of a still stronger, all-enveloping loyalty to humanity."

As a student he worked alongside another great humanitarian—the late Woodrow Wilson. Both were studying at Johns Hopkins University in 1885-86; Wilson as a graduate student writing his doctor's thesis, and Levermore as a university fellow.

Since then his life has been devoted to the study of history. He taught his favorite subject in New Haven, in the University of California, in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Then he came to the Adelphi Academy in Brooklyn, and became its president for 18 years. On his resignation in 1912 he began to devote more time to the development of world peace. He became a director of the World Peace Foundation, and later secretary of the New York Peace society, a position which he still holds.

HIS OWN BOY WENT OFF TO WAR, TOO

He has written many books on historical subjects, as well as on singing, which seems to be his other hobby.

But throughout all his work has run the memory of that young soldier boy marching off to war, and death.

It must have been before him when he saw his own son go off to France, many years later. He came back after 32 months as a captain and a hero.

But it might have been different.

cussed with the president but he still refused to discuss the nature of the information.

BORAH JOINS CONCLAVE

Later in the evening Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, also called on Mr. Coolidge, and Mr. Daugherty joined the conference. At this meeting, it was not discussed, but Mr. Borah frankly told the attorney general that he should retire because the country and congress had lost confidence in him.

It was to run down the report of oil investments by Mr. Daugherty that the committee set auditors at work examining the books of Harry Payne Whitney, New York financier, and J. P. Bankard and Co., a New York stock brokerage firm. The result of this examination, now in progress in New York, is not known here.

In the face of the story of oil trading, the attorney general has remained adamant in his determination not to quit the cabinet. He spent most of Thursday at work at his hotel on war fraud cases and told his intimates he had no intention of resigning.

He takes the position that he is guilty of no wrongdoing and has used no confidential official information as the basis of stock investments.

SINCLAIR RETURNS

Sinclair arrived Wednesday from Europe abroad the President Harding. He was met by members of his family and Colonel J. W. Zevely, his attorney.

Mr. Sinclair was in a genial mood, smilingly posed for photographers and answered questions of reporters on every subject but Teapot Dome. When the newspapermen came abroad he sent word he had a "very sensational statement" which proved to be a discussion of the prospects for consumption of American petroleum products in Europe during 1924.

The oil man gave assurances that his race horse, Zet Epiard, French champion, next summer, although details of the match have not been arranged.

KAPPAS-INITIATE 11 NEW MEMBERS

President Maurer Of Beloit College Speaks At Meeting Here

Whether we need more intelligence or more goodness was discussed by W. Irving Maurer of Beloit college in his address in Peabody hall Wednesday evening in connection with the program arranged by Phi Beta Kappa, honorary scholastic society, which initiated eleven new members. The opinion was that goodness is more important than intelligence.

Another speaker was Dr. Samuel Plantz, president of Lawrence college, who told of the origin of the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Several violin solos were played by Professor Percy Fullinwider. A banquet was served at 6:15 in Hotel Appleton.

The initiation service took place at 5 o'clock in Dean Carl J. Waterman's studio at Peabody hall. The new members are Alice Lyons, Norton Masterson, Ina Dunbar, Muriel Miller, Laura Slevert, Elbert Smith, Ralph Culman, Maurice Arverson, Frances Messerole, Ruby Johnson and John TeSelle.

YOUTH MURDERS FOUR TO ATONE FOR BLASPHEMY

became clear and he realized the seriousness of his crime, but did not reveal to anyone what he had done. On last Tuesday, Feb. 19, the anniversary of his "sin," he felt that he must kill his parents as a sacrifice and penance for the murder of his sisters, he said.

On Tuesday night McDowell told officers, he went to bed in the room adjoining that in which his father and mother slept, without any thought of violence. He dreamed that he was commanded by voices to kill his father and mother. So vivid and realistic was the dream, he said, that he awoke, went into the adjoining room and fired five shots from a 32 calibre revolver at his mother and father.

The crime committed and his mind again rational, Frank said he hid the revolver in the bottom of his trunk, bumped his head against a door to support a story that his parents had been murdered and that he had been knocked senseless by the murderer. He slashed the screen of the entrance door to the home to support his first assertion that he had heard a commotion in his parents room and had been knocked senseless by the escaping murderer. A jury last night returned a verdict that Mr. and Mrs. McDowell had come to their death from bullet wounds inflicted by their son. The jury recommended that the youth be held on a charge of murder without bail.

DEPUTIES KILL MAD AXE SLAYER

Demented Man Rushes At Quail With Weapon; Falls At Sixth Shot

By Associated Press
Virginia, Minn.—Confronted by a crazed man with a bloodcovered axe with which an hour previously he had beheaded a camp worker at the Nelson sawmill, ten miles east of Cook, a sheriff's posse late Wednesday afternoon shot and fatally wounded Joseph Balmiski, the slayer.

Emil Larson, a camp worker at the mill was reported beheaded by a demented fellow worker at noon. Duty sheriffs Paul Brown, Gus Gustafson, Marco Bayuk, and Paul Caeger, were traveling on the Itasca-Tower road, in a direction approaching Balmiski, when they were suddenly confronted by the murderer, walking toward Tower with an axe in hand.

Instead of dropping the weapon at the command of officers, Balmiski rushed toward the party brandishing the axe. Five pistol shots were fired into the man but failed to halt his advance. At the sixth shot he dropped to the ground. He died from loss of blood a short time later, while riding to Virginia in the sheriff's car.

COUNCIL BUYS 50 ACRE PARK IN FOURTH WARD

CITY PAYS $5,500 FOR TRACT BOUGHT FOR GOLF COURSE

Purchase Is Made From Fred F. Wettengel—Considered Two Years Ago

In compliance with a resolution passed by the common council on Sept. 19, 1923, the council Wednesday evening voted to purchase a 50 acre park for the fourth ward. The sum paid was $5,500 plus $178.75 as interest starting from Aug. 3, 1923. The park was purchased from Fred F. Wettengel.

The site, which includes blocks 73 and 74 of the fourth ward plat, was originally purchased by Mr. Wettengel for Appleton's new golf club. The club later decided on a site on the Brickyard-rd. Mr. Wettengel, formerly was a member of the old park commission and has been a prominent advocate of parks for the city, offered to sell the site to the city for park purposes.

His offer of $5,500, he said, was exactly the same price he had paid for it. He offered to transfer it to the city for the same price. Since the common council did not care to make an appropriation last fall, Alderman R. F. McGilgan introduced a resolution to pay for the park in February. The council agreed to pay the interest on the money from Aug. 3, Wednesday evening the council fulfilled its agreement and authorized purchase without a dissenting vote.

The park had been considered by the council two years ago, but at the time decided to purchase the park in the sixth ward. The fourth ward park, as yet unnamed, borders on Calumet-st. the south city limits in the southeast part of the city. On the north end, the park extends beyond Harrison-st. and Fremont-st. passes through it. It is thickly covered with young timber and some heavy timber. Rapids, small knolls and brooks help to beautify it.

BANKERS' PRESIDENT DEMAND NONPARTY TAX

Washington, D. C.—Aroused by the action of the Democratic caucus of the lower house in making the Garner rates in the pending tax measure, a test of democracy the American Bankers league, through its president, Charles de B. Claiborne, has issued a statement calling upon its membership and the public to repudiate the actions of any party caucus, by demanding of congress a nonpartisan consideration of the measure. "We challenge the authority of any group of congressmen to denigrate the judgment or despoil the wisdom of their colleagues or to render invalid the constitutional right of a sovereign to instruct his representatives in congress," the statement read. "The Garner rates are no more of a test of democracy than they are a test of religion. Such procedure strikes down free institutions and makes us a government by politicians, instead of a government by the people. If this government is to maintain the confidence of the American people, Congressmen must conform to fundamental principles and must realize that those who pay the taxes have an equity in this legislation that cannot be abridged by a political caucus."

Folks Buy More Washing Machines But Laundries Are Not Losing Business

To the average housekeeper, housework is not the drudgery that it was in olden days, because modern appliances have made light the heaviest part of the work. There are few hand-washers or dry-goods stores in Appleton which do not carry washing machines. Then the laundries have taken much of the "blue" out of Monday, and as washing is one of the hardest of a housekeeper's tasks, these two household aids have done away with much of the labor.

No need, now, for mother to say, "Johnny, be careful of your shirt. Susan, you've only worn that dress one day and now look at it. Father take your feet off the cushion." The manager of Langstead-Meyer Co. store said that now the housekeeper does not worry about the wash as she used to, because if she has a washing machine she knows that her work can be done quickly. In fact more washing machines are being sold than ever, he said, because women are realizing that it is not only saving on backs and health, but that the expense is not as great as many people think.

BUT THEY TIRE OF IT
I. G. Borg of the Uneda Damp Wash and the Peerless Laundry was of the opinion that more and more women are sending the family washing to the laundry, because, he has found, that the novelty of modern appliances soon wears off, the work becomes monotonous and tiresome in a short time. When the price is figured up, including the soap, electric current, water, heat and labor, he said, the charge placed by the laundry upon the average washing is not exorbitant, and most women are willing to have the wash done this way. Then, too, women have realized that the old story of the injury done to clothes by the laundry is untrue, and that the clothes laundered in plants are as carefully done as the most particular housekeeper could wish.

At A. Galpin's Sons hardware store it was said that the sale of washing machines is brisk, and that the business was not decreasing by any means. The hand wash machine, it was said here, is practically obsolete.

PAY BY MONTH
At Hauer Hardware Co. the average sale was about 10 or 12 a month. They go into the average class of homes, too, for it is women found in these homes that have the most use of this kind of machine. Most of the machines are paid on the installment plan because the average wage earner cannot afford to pay cash. Many barbers, said the manager of this department at the Hauer Hardware Co., use these machines to save laundry bills. One barber is in the habit of washing out his towels and jackets every Monday morning the same as the housewife. Hotels also use them for rinsing out kitchen towels.

The manager of another store said the average sale of washing machines in his department is 12 a month or 150 a year. It is generally the wage earner who buys a machine, he said, because the moneyed class have either no use for a machine or else have been supplied with one for some time. Most of the machines are sold on the monthly payment plan.

An interesting incident was told at one of the stores of how people take advantage of the free demonstration offer. One man whose wife was ill was forced to do the family laundry, but rather than labor himself, each he would call up one of the store and ask for a demonstration in his home. In this manner he got the washing done, until he had called up most of the Appleton dealers. He was out of luck then, because the few that were left heard of his trick and demanded some evidence of intent to purchase before doing the family's weekly wash as a demonstration of the power of the machine.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

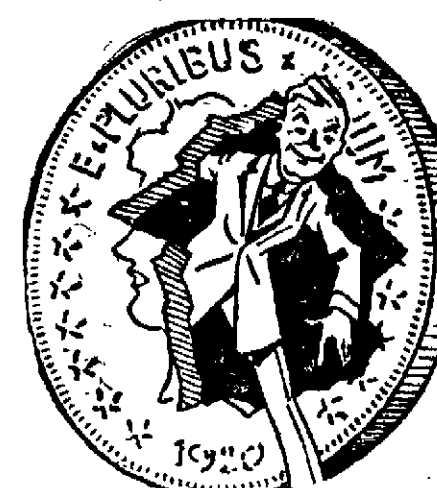

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allentox, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed Schlitz Brothers Co., Volga's Drug Store to dispense Allentox with the understanding that if the first pint bottle does not show the way to complete recovery he will gladly return your money without comment.

A Business Story Rich in meaning to every motor car buyer How Studebaker reached the heights

THE story of Studebaker has been told by many men in many ways. Now let us tell it to you.

Studebaker growth has in late years been Motorodom's sensation. Sales have mounted until last year 145,167 buyers of quality cars selected Studebakers. They paid $201,000,000 for them.

All must realize that a new situation has arisen in high-grade cars. You who are interested should now analyze the reasons.

72-year traditions

The Studebaker principles have become traditions in their 72 years of existence. They have never wavered. In all changing conditions they have brought new luster to that name.

Men come and go, but a name like this becomes a heritage to foster and enhance. That's what we've done — we who have that name in keeping for a time.

Studebaker has always been a leader. For two generations it led in horse-drawn vehicles, now products of the past.

Most of you remember Studebaker carriages — queens of their time. They were used by multitudes of people who loved quality and style. When motor cars succeeded them, Studebaker became the logical leader in that field. Any other place would have been an anomaly.

The only way to the top

A concern of this age has one fact ingrafted in its fiber. The only way to leadership is through super-service.

The leader must excel in all you seek — in quality, in beauty and in value. There is no other way to the top. Every stretch of the road is strewn with wrecks of those who tried another.

What others say — not what you say — determines your place in the long run. In every field of endeavor one must accept that fact.

We had the money, the plants, the prestige. We had the incentive of Studebaker traditions. In time we secured the men.

We told those men to build for us the utmost in fine motor cars, regardless of all costs. We pledged them our good faith and our resources.

The cost was $50,000,000

We built new factories — modern plants. We fitted them with new equipment — 12,500 up-to-date machines.

Find Out Why

People paid $201,000,000 last year for Studebaker cars. The result is now a demand for 150,000 per year.

Over $50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment to build the finest of fine cars. One of these cars, built in 1918, has run 475,000 miles. That means 80 years of ordinary service. In December this car made the trip from coast to coast.

Of the $50,000,000 in our plants and equipment, $32,000,000 has been invested in the past five years. So it represents the last word in efficient manufacture.

We established a Department of Methods and Standards, to fix for every Studebaker detail the maximum of quality.

We created a Bureau of Research and Experiment, employing 125 skilled men. They make 500,000 tests per year to maintain our supremacy. They fixed countless standards, including 35 separate formulas for steels. Then on the most important steels we offered makers a bonus of 15% to conform to those standards exactly.

We invested $8,000,000 in a drop forge plant to make all our own drop forgings. $10,000,000 in body plants, to build all bodies to our standards.

We employed 1,200 skilled inspectors to see that all standards were fulfilled. There are 30,000 inspections on Studebaker cars during manufacture, before they go out from the factory.

That's the whole story

That's about the whole story. We simply followed the never-changing Studebaker principles. We gave to our buyers the utmost — values they could not match. Then they turned by tens of thousands to Studebaker cars.

Over 750,000 of those cars have gone out. Their performance has developed a demand for 150,000 per year.

Every increase in sales brought a lowered cost, which we promptly gave our buyers. Today these fine cars are offering values which no rival can approach. They have made us the world's largest builders of quality cars.

We deserve a hearing

Now we deserve a hearing. All who consider a car at $1,000 or over should learn what Studebaker offers. That in fairness to yourself and us. Check one by one the advantages we offer. You'll find them by the score.

Remember that 145,167 who did that last year chose a Studebaker car. There are nine chances in ten that you'll do it.

Consider our record, our accomplishments, our policies and principles. Consider that we have $90,000,000 at stake on satisfying men like you. Don't buy a car in this high-grade class without seeing what we give.

TRAIN TO ELAND ADDED BY C. & N. W. BRINGS PROTEST

Evening Train Both Ways, Appleton to Eland, Starts Monday, March 3

Additional train service will be put into effect on the Chicago and Northwestern railroad between Appleton, Junction and Eland beginning March 3, but the schedule does not meet with the approval of Appleton Chamber of Commerce and officials of some of the other cities along the Ashland division route.

The train will leave Eland at 5:20 in the afternoon and is to reach Appleton Junction at 8 o'clock. It will return to Eland leaving here at 8:30 in the evening and reaching Eland at 11:30.

The service was proposed to the railroad commission at Madison at a substitute for trains 107 and 108, which were annulled, causing protest which resulted in a hearing at New London. It was made plain to the railroad after the hearing that the preference was for restoration of trains 131 and 132, which had been suspended several months previously. Further expressions in favor of 131 and 132 were voiced after the railroad's intentions were made known.

COMMISSION NOTICE
Announcement of the new train is contained in a letter written to the railroad commission by R. N. Van Doren, general solicitor of the railroad. A copy of the letter was sent to the chamber of commerce here and cited there reasons for adopting the evening schedule:

"The principal grounds of complaint at the hearing were directed to the inability of the people in the communities interested to make Appleton Junction with trains both north and south, and of their inability to leave Chicago and Milwaukee at a reasonable hour in the afternoon and get to these communities that evening."

"I have just gone over the evidence and find that these are the principal grounds of complaint, with the exception of a desire for an earlier schedule. The latter, however, which of course would not be advanced by the substitution of trains 131 and 132 for the proposed schedule. These objections are fully met by the proposed schedule. No one during the hearing made any suggestion that an additional train northward, during the middle of the day, was necessary, and this is all that train 131 would accomplish."

WILL ASSURE PROFIT.
The letter then states a seeming approval of the proposed schedule, when first submitted to the railroad commission and the later opposition. It also declares that the train now ordered into service can be operated with one crew and will produce a better record of profit than if some other schedule is adopted.

"Mr. Van Doren's intentions are correct," said Hugh G. Corbett, secretary of the chamber of commerce, in discussing the matter. "The reason we did not say anything about trains 131 and 132 at the New London hearing was that we were there to discuss restoration of trains 107 and 108 and were not permitted to talk about other trains. After the hearing, however, we had a roundtable conference with officials at which we made it plain that our real desire was not to restore the trains which had just been taken off, but to have 131 and 132 put back into service. We wanted extra service that would be of benefit to the most people, and we won't get it with this schedule. We now have two trains northbound in the evening within less than two hours of each other, which is not necessary."

OFFERED GOOD SERVICE
"The officials asked us what we wanted and offered at that time in the talks they gave afterwards to arrange a schedule that would render the most service. Now they are trying to satisfy the demands of the commission with a train that takes into consideration the amount of profit possible rather than the service it will give patrons. Appleton is not alone in its wish to see trains 131 and 132 restored. We were in communication with New London and other cities and they asked the same service we did and I know they will be disappointed in not getting it."

Train 131 northbound from Milwaukee to Antigo by way of Manitowoc and Appleton Junction left here at 11:25 in the morning and the same train as number 132 southbound arrived here at 9 o'clock in the evening, connecting with the train going south on the Northern Wisconsin division to Milwaukee shortly after that hour. Trains 107 and 108, annulled later, and over which the differences arose, left Appleton Junction northbound at 9:50 in the evening and southbound at 5:20 in the morning, respectively. They were taken off because of a plan to reroute traffic to St. Paul by way of Green Bay, the railroad believing this would be more beneficial and profitable.

Laemmle, Film King, Was Merchant In Oshkosh Once

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

Hollywood—This (February) is Carl Laemmle month on the motion picture calendar, so designed because it marks his eighteenth anniversary in films and his fortieth in America.

Universal Pictures Corporation thus honors its founder and active president.

Laemmle has long been a dominant figure of the screen world because he personifies the fighting independence which in early days molded the trend of pictures.

An odd fighting man he is. Little, compact, shrewd, genial and generous. Not belligerent, but dynamic and tenacious, so that while he doesn't pick a scrap, once it is forced upon him he meets it doggedly.

A man in whom ideals are not mere words but something to be sweated over in the business world, even if never fully realized.

To fix this impression of the man's make, scrutinize the accompanying portrait, marking the mouth and jaw and the hooded, level eyes.

WAS STORE MANAGER
Now multi-millionaire and respected leader in a great industry, Carl Laemmle forty years ago was a penniless immigrant from Germany, dispossessed from the store into New York, 17 years old. His first job was a drugstore errand boy. On a South Dakota ranch he earned $4 a month "and found." He worked in the Chicago stockyards. Next Oshkosh knew him as a clothing store cashier and manager. Then with $4000 saved, he opened his first movie house in Milwaukee, because here was "a business with a popular appeal."

With several other early exhibitors, Laemmle found himself menaced by what they called the movie "trust" which sought complete control of this new plaything of Croesus. Banning these independents together, he led the fight to the highest courts and to victory.

Meantime he had raised sufficient capital to organize the "Independent Motion Pictures," a producing concern that so-labeled "Imp" which constantly nagged the would-be monopolists. The company waxed. Out of other battles grew the Universal Film Manufacturing Company. Its name changed in 1923 to Universal Pictures Corporation, now grown to seven times its original size, with exchanges throughout the world.

DRINKS BUTTERMILK
Laemmle's fighting face was wreathed in smiles as I talked with him in the modest throne room at Universal City. He was sipping buttermilk—most unimpassioned fare. Swayed by sentimental mood, he cast back reflectively over the outstanding facts and significance of his career.

"The first five years," he said, "were just plain hell on earth. Attempts to break me. To freeze me out. Internal and external squabbles. I wouldn't go through them for all of Rockefeller's and Ford's millions lumped. But those years taught me confidence and the futility of worry.

"Today I am probably the only president of a big film company who can do just as he pleases. I don't have to consult directors. I can go to Europe when I want to. I am a free man. It is compensation for those terrible years."

"I am proud to say I never used a dollar of Wall Street money. All his singular pride of clean combat seemed summed up in that boast. 'Money means nothing to me,' many more. But I continue to work as hard as ever, because while financially I have succeeded beyond my wildest dreams, I still haven't fully realized my artistic ideals. And I am only 57."

LABORATORIES ARE NECESSARY TO TURN OUT GOOD PRODUCT

Kimberly-Clark Chemist Tells Industrial Forum Of Laboratory Work

The principal point emphasized by C. A. Fourness, chemist of Kimberly-Clark company, in his talk on "The Relation of the Laboratory to Pulp & Paper Mill Operation" before the Industrial Forum of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening was that manufacturing is a series of small details and that the finished product is spoiled by the imperfection of any of these details.

He said by going through the mill and taking samples during the manufacturing process, the laboratory man can tell whether the product is going through all right. It is the duty of the laboratory to make analysis and tests of everything used in the process of manufacture," he said. "For instance, he mentioned coal, and the bronze that go into the bearings of machinery."

"The speaker said it was necessary also to test all the material that goes into the manufactured product such as the acids and the pulp and even the wood itself. It is the duty of the laboratory man to look after the washing of the clay and see it is free from grit."

Laboratory work goes back further than the plant. It goes back into the woods, where the woodsmen are instructed how to pile the pulpwood to prevent it from rotting. Then there is the dressing process to look after after the wood reaches the woodroom. The laboratory man tests the mixture for consistency after it comes from the digesters, declared the speaker.

TWO DRUNKS ARRESTED AT KAUKAUNA PAY FINES

Two men brought in from Kaukauna by Chief R. H. McCarthy of the Kaukauna police department faced Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Thursday morning on charges of drunkenness. They were Charles Coleman and John Johnson. Both were sentenced to pay a fine of $5 plus costs of $4.80.

GRAINS FEEDS and Table Scraps will support a flock of hens and keep them looking fine but the number of eggs produced, especially in winter, is very disappointing. A hen's egg making organs can't turn all ingredients into eggs. The proper ingredients, and in proper proportions, must be supplied if maximum egg production is to be obtained.

That is where Sterling Egg Mash comes in. It supplies the additional egg making elements not found in grain feeds, so that 100 lbs. of Sterling Scratch Feed and 100 lbs. of Sterling Egg Mash fed as directed will produce eggs more economically than if Scratch Feed is fed alone. And besides, your flock will be kept in better condition.

A tag bearing a Guarantee of satisfaction is placed in every bag of Sterling Egg Mash. We have it in 25 lb., 50 lb., and 100 lb. white cotton bags.

WEALTHY CHINESE PAY TO PRESERVE ANCESTRAL TOMBS

Bandits Revive Ancient Custom Of Demanding Money To Spare Graves

Peking—A practise almost as old as China itself—that of extorting money from well-to-do Chinese by threatening to desecrate or by actually desecrating ancestral graves—has been revived by Honan bandits.

Nanyang, in the middle of Honan province, offers an outstanding example of this revival. Once a thriving town and the home of Chu-Kuang, famous hero and strategist of the time of the Three Kingdoms, has become a bandit stronghold. Virtually all wealthy Chinese have long since left the place to escape extortion. But the bandits still have a grip on them.

By threatening to exhume the bones of their parents or other ancestors, the most sacred things conceivable to the mind of the Chinese, and to burn them or scatter them to the four winds, the bandits are virtually certain of receiving ransom money from these wealthy people. They are just as certain of the money as if they had possession of the victim of extortion himself or of his money.

Moreover, even in the event a captive is killed owing to delay on the part of friends or relatives in paying ransom money, the body still remains to be ransomed to save it from desecration.

It is said there are at least 50 gangs of bandits centering around Nanyang and occupying more than 60 villages in the surrounding territory. The gangs range in number from 600 to 2,000 members each. Each is striving to attain the fame of the infamous "White Wolf" who for years terrorized portions of Honan province before banditry became such a widely recognized profession. "Wang the Bearded," Wang the Monk, "Chang the Ninth" are titles assumed by three of the gang leaders. No apparent effort is being made by the military authorities to suppress these gangs.

SCHOOL GIRLS' STORIES HOLD WAUKESHA MAN

Waukesha — Following sensational testimony given by two 15-year-old school girls, which charged existence of almost unbelievable conditions at the home of Daniel Jarmon, he was bound over to the March term of the municipal court by Judge Frame and his bail fixed at $1,500 which amount he deposited with the court.

Jamon is a bachelor, 53, and was formerly janitor of the post office.

Testimony showed that he made his home a meeting place for young girls and boys, that whisky was frequently brought to the house and that immoral conduct was encouraged.

The young men involved are mostly known as frequenters of dance halls and pool rooms in the city.

FIREMEN RESPONDED TO FIRE CALL EVERY 37 HOURS LAST YEAR

Property Damage Caused By Fire In 1923 Totaled $18,137.12

Every fire recurring 37 hours during the year 1923 some person's house or place of business was in danger of being destroyed by fire. It is evident from the annual report of Chief George P. McGillan to the common council and the fire and police commission.

The department responded to 233 fire alarms, but 11 of these were false alarms and 53 were chimney fires. Of the calls 211 came by telephone and 16 were box alarms. The chief's car also responded to 30 pull motor calls. Three out-of-town calls, one from Seymour, one from the Out-land County asylum and one from Black Creek, were answered.

The total damage caused by fire amounted to $18,137.12, of which $10,547.47 was to buildings and $7,589.65 to contents of buildings. The aggregate value of the property endangered was $208,058, and the insurance on it was $101,505.

Causes of fires are classified as follows: Chimney fires, 63; sparks from stoves, 15; short circuit in automobiles, 12; false alarms, 11; cigarettes, 8; dump fires and grass fires, 5; sparks from engine, kerosene oil stove, children playing with matches, escaping smoke, 6 each; spontaneous combustion of oily rags, 5; lighting, overheated smokepipe, gasoline, overheated furnace and unknown, 4 each; back fire of automobiles, exposure in coal, blow torch, ashes, 3 each; back fire of automobiles, exposure, short circuit in generator, candle, 2 each; broken water pipe, hot iron, gas explosion in furnace, overheated fireplace, electric iron, gas stove, firecrackers, oil, acetylene torch, bar kettle, hot box, overheated baking oven, spontaneous combustion in chemicals, burning grease, 1 each.

To operate the fire department last year, it cost the city $39,238.73, of which $22,330.96 was for salaries and $16,907.77 was for maintenance of the signal system.

NEED 16 LICENSE PLATES FOR COUNTY'S VEHICLES

The county highway department has applied for 16 license plates for its automobile trucks and other department automobiles. County vehicles are exempt from the motor vehicle tax, and the only fee required of the county is $1 for each plate. The department has 14 trucks, one roadster and one coach. Four license plates have been received thus far.

26,500 Requests For Hairpins In This Pile Of Letters

TWENTY-SIX thousand five hundred letters are piled up on the table and in the baskets in the room at the Scolding Locks Hairpin Co. in response to its nationwide advertising inviting readers to send for samples of Scolding Locks hairpins.

Approximately 150,000 letters have been received in response to the advertisements and they are arriving at the rate of four and five thousand a day. The peak was in excess of 26,000 in a day. A large number of letters have been received from eastern Canada and New England states as a result of talks on hairpins broadcasted from a radio station in Montreal.

The advertising was published in papers which have a combined circulation of about 3,000,000. The entire staff of the company was required for a few days to open and answer the thousands of letters that poured in from the postoffice. Railway mail clerks made up bundles of letters and dressed to the hairpin company while they worked on the trains. Big boxes were required to transport the mail to the factory.

The mail probably was the heaviest ever received by an Appleton concern.

FARMERS JOINING NEW SAFETY CLUB

Farmers appear as anxious as city people to have a safe drivers club as proposed by the chamber of commerce. Otto A. Eimke, living on rural route 6 was among the first to write the chamber saying he believed in an organization to curb road recklessness, and offering to become a member.

The chamber of commerce would be glad to have expressions from other farmers and from people of various cities and villages of the county.

"That is just what we want," said Secretary Hugh G. Corbett. "This club is to be for the whole county, not just for the city of Appleton. We want as many as 1,000 automobiles carrying the safe drivers' club sign and banded together to build sentiment which will put more caution and courtesy in motoring conduct."

The accumulation of letters and other responses now in the hands of the community welfare committee of the chamber indicates that a mass-meeting of motorists would be feasible and one will be called as soon as a speaker is engaged. Organization of the club then will be accomplished.

PHILIPP INVITED TO ADDRESS C. OF C.

Booster Meeting For State Chamber Of Commerce Planned Here In March

A booster meeting for a state chamber of commerce with E. L. Philipp, former governor of Wisconsin as the speaker probably will make up the program of the March forum of Appleton Chamber of Commerce. An invitation has been extended Mr. Philipp to come here.

This gathering will be planned along the lines suggested by Mr. Philipp when he first proposed a state chamber of commerce. Members of commercial clubs of nearby cities, representatives of farm organizations and others who would make up the membership of a state chamber will be invited to attend.

Mr. Philipp is president of Milwaukee Association of Commerce and has induced his organization to endorse the movement for a state chamber. Since getting that backing he has been a leader in promoting a Wisconsin chamber and will tour the state to explain the idea. Appleton Chamber of Commerce gave its endorsement about two years ago.

HORTONVILLE P. M. TERM ENDS MAY 28

Examinations for appointment as postmaster at Hortonville will be held at the Appleton postoffice on March 15. It has been announced. The presidential appointees terms expire on May 28 in the following cities in Wisconsin, Comoros, Cedarburg, Hortonville, Markesan, Pepin, Ransom Lake, Spring Valley and Withee. It is not likely that any save the Hortonville applicants will take the examination in Appleton. The salary at Hortonville is $1,900.

WOMAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Health is woman's greatest asset. Upon it depends charm, beauty, power to attract others, happiness and success, and it is what really makes life worth living. Thousands of women suffer from headaches, backache, nervousness, mental depression and mysterious pains, who could find immediate relief by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which is made from roots and herbs. For nearly half a century this medicine has been recognized as the standard remedy for woman's ills.—Advertisement.

Speaking of cake—as you were only yesterday—might we suggest the flour to use in making it? A flour as fine and white as a flour can be milled without disappearing altogether? A flour that carries with it the fine flavor of the selected wheat from which it is made?

Gold Medal Cake Flour is a new flour with an old name, a name that means so much to so many housewives that it has to be a mighty good cake flour to achieve the honor of using it.

CANDLER LIKED ROMANCE THOUGH HE HAS PASSED 70

Coca Cola King, Worth Millions, Runs Into Trouble In Love Affairs

Atlanta, Ga. — The spirit of the chevron flourishes in the old heart of Asa Candler. Those near to him will tell you that is why tragedy broods over the closing years of his life.

Seventy-three years have passed Candler by. He has accumulated millions upon millions in the manufacture of Coca-Cola.

No man gains millions without contact with the stern realities of life. Few such men escape the world's criticism, its hard-boiledness. Yet romance glows in the twilight for old Asa. Having lived his three-score and ten he still believed the grand passion possible for him.

But the glow in the twilight seems to have been only a will-o'-the-wisp. Just a scant week after the Coca-Cola king sat in federal court and heard his love letters to Mrs. Onez-

USE OF HORSEMEAT IN FRANCE IS INCREASING

Washington.—Consumption of horse meat as an article of daily diet is increasing in France, the Department of Commerce is informed, and the annual slaughter of horses is estimated at about 120,000 head. Of this number about 100,000 are of French origin, while the greater portion of the balance is imported from Great Britain.

The advantages claimed for horse meat are its comparative cheapness and nutritive qualities. Its sale is regulated by law to avoid its substitution for other meats and it is usually sold in butcher shops especially adapted for that purpose.

ma DeBouché who was suing him for $500,000 damages for alleged breach of promise, read to an eager public, his bride of less than a year was arrested by the police of Atlanta and charged with being an "occupant of a dive."

She was found in company with W. J. ("Bill") Stoddard, prominent Atlanta man, and president of the National Dry Cleaners association, and another man, in an apartment on the fashionable north side residential district of Atlanta. A whiskey-bottle, nearly empty, was found on the table beside them, police declare.

"We were only having a little party, what's wrong in that? And, besides, there are other people besides the Candler in Atlanta," Mrs. Candler is quoted as saying after the police broke in.

And now the wags of Atlanta are whispering that the old man once more is going to be left alone with his millions in his mansion in the city's most exclusive residential subdivision—that he shortly will begin divorce proceedings against the pretty stenographer he married last June.

Whether he intends to bring a divorce suit against his wife, he will not say.

Next month his eldest son, Walter Candler, will defend a $100,000 suit for damages brought against him by Mrs. Clyde Byfield, beautiful young Atlanta woman, who alleges he assaulted her while she was a passenger on the S. E. Berengaria bound for Europe.

Asa Candler is a bent and broken old man. His hair is snow-white and his shoulders stooped, and his face is wrinkled and gray. But some who know him say he believes romance is waiting just around the corner for him.

SAYS HER HUSBAND SLEW GRANDPARENT

Plymouth, Indiana.—A double death shadow hangs over Ray D. Smith, Marshall county farmer, against whom are made grisly charges of murdering his grandmother, placing her body in a trunk and imbedding it in concrete under a chicken house.

From the mouth of his own wife comes this gruesome charge; and with it she links the mysterious murder of Smith's father. In a statement to the county prosecutor, Mrs. Smith has said that her husband confessed to the slaying of his parent. It is now recalled that Smith's mother and his first wife died under mysterious circumstances.

Physicians find that, even if he escapes the law, death from tuberculosis will claim him.

"I haven't long to go," he says. "And I want my innocence established, not for my own sake but for that of the son who will survive me. My conscience is as clear as my wife's."

They Like 'Em Young For Bride And Bridegroom In This County, Records Show

"Cupid" Hantschel's Books Show Maid And Man Have Mighty Slim Chance After They Pass Fortieth Milestone

No use talking, girls, they like 'em young.

That may sound a little bit rough, but it's a fact borne out by the records of the county clerk, and you know what they say about statistics—no matter how uninteresting, they do not lie.

Yes, a person's chances for marriage after 35 years is less than one in ten. So, while the tempo is flitting, better get on the Leap Year band wagon and toot your own horn, make hay while the sun shines, don't put off until tomorrow what you can do today, and a bird in the hand is worth two in the bush; also, a ring on the finger is worth two in the jewelry store window.

The records of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, prove that the doubtful age is well understood by flapper, spinster, matron and widow, of other species of woman there are not.

SAME FOR BACHELORS
To silence that guffaw from the A-men corner, it might be well to state that the moss-covered bachelor is no more in demand by candidates for matrimony than are their sisters of the maturer age.

Girls don't as a rule marry so young as they did in yesteryears, and men don't wait so long as they used. Brides and bridegrooms don't allow such great difference in years to come between them. Men make no bones over the fact that their brides are a year or two older so long as they are young. Widows and widowers, both "grass" and otherwise, that marry don't stay unmarried very long. A person may step over the county line now and then to claim a spouse, but most couples seem to be perfectly satisfied with Wisconsin crops.

NO NEW RECORDS
The year 1923 did not live up to its expectations in the way of matrimonial "hookups" for the chief "vango-coupler" lay down on the job, the same as he is doing this year. Dan Cupid's June marriage harvest, for instance, was about 25 per cent below that of the preceding year. Also, Thanksgiving day set no new records as the year's most popular wedding day.

January started out quite cold, as usual, and the temperature dropped away below zero during Lent. Then came the time when a man's fancy turns to mush and installment furniture, followed by a long period of fair and warmer and winding up with a sharp rise in the marriage market in October and November only to have the bottom fall out in cold, cold December.

June, the month of honeymoons, holds the record with 62 applications for marriage licenses, and February, March and December divided the consolation prize between them over the unpopular number 13. January scored 24, April winked 21 times, May 45, July 27, August 41, September 31, October 49 and November 40. Grand total 379—which was 43 licenses short of the mark of the year 1922. Of last year's number, two were refused.

LIKE 'EM YOUNG
The most marriageable period of life for women in Outagamie-co is 18 to 25 years. For men it is 21 to 29 years. The most popular age for marriageable girls is 20 and the most popular age for the breaking of bachelor's vows is 23. The youngest bride was 15 and the youngest groom 18. The oldest groom was 68, and the oldest bride 63.

Taking the year 1923 as a type one finds that 20 per cent of all the girls that marry do so before they are 20 years of age, and 30 per cent of the marrying bachelors have put their neck under the marriage yoke by the time they are 23 years old.

It is seen further that Love conquers 75 per cent of the girls before they are 25, also 85 per cent before they attain the pivotal age of 30 and 97 per cent by the time they are "fat and forty." Which means that although her chances after 40 are only three in a hundred, still they are three.

CHANCES FADE AT 40
Three-fourths of the men stumble before they are 30 years, 5 per cent take the count while they are in their teens, but if they pass the rough and rocky years, they are apt to be pretty longsome after 40, for their chances after that are only four in a hundred. Yes, ma'am, that statement about 15 to 25 being the most dangerous age for girls is backed up by 255 out of 379 brides, ditto the one about 21 to 29 for men is okayed by 273 bridegrooms. The minority is too small to object, and the ayes have it.

The average difference in ages between husband and wife is three years. About 13 per cent of the brides are older than their consorts but are, as an average, only about two years ahead. About 7 per cent are equal age.

Outagamie-co boys and girls look pretty good to each other, you will find, although 85 out of the 758, after scouring the county migrate to others for a mate. Nevertheless, some of them helped to add to the population by bringing in partners to the home county. Twenty persons went beyond the confines of Wisconsin.

46 TRY IT AGAIN
Of the candidates appearing at the county clerk's office, 353 men and 360 women were making their first venture on the sea of matrimony. There also were 22 widowers, 18 widows, 4 divorced men and 1 divorced woman. In 14 cases widowed folks chose partners of similar experience. The average length of widowhood, for those that remarried was about four years.

By far the greater majority of the candidates for matrimony were native born. Of the 753 parties, only 44 were born in foreign lands. Of these, one-half, or 22 came from Holland; one-fourth, or 11 came from Germany; there were two each from England, Austria and Syria, and one each from Italy, Belgium and Russia. There were three Indian couples, and one case in which an Indian married a white woman. No statistics are available on the parentage or descent of applicants, since the records ask only for the nationality, which in most cases was given as "American."

Very few ceremonies were performed by persons in civil office. In this county ministers have the run on marriages, but here and there a couple prefers a justice of the peace to tie the knot.

Newspaper Advertising Is Business Barometer

Babson Studies Advertising Volume To Determine Trend Of Buying

By Associated Press
Babson Park, Florida—A new barometer was added to the list of factors on which changes can be anticipated by Roger W. Babson, who in a statement discussed the studies made by his associates covering the relationship between newspaper advertising and local business. "We have long needed a reliable measure of business psychology," says Mr. Babson. "My associates having studied and rejected several indices, finally analyzed newspaper advertising lineage, both as a cause in changing local business conditions and as a barometer by which impending improvement or decline can be anticipated. The results in this field of investing are exceedingly interesting and pertinent."

"In comparing newspaper advertising by months with the volume of local business in thirty leading cities for a period of ten years, we found there is a distinct connection between these two factors. An increase in newspaper advertising is paralleled in almost every case by an increase in local business beginning the same month. When the lineage of local newspaper advertising turns and begins to decline the momentum gained during the general business in the community either from one to three months before it definitely turns downward."

CHICAGO IS EXAMPLE
"The figures on the city of Chicago, for instance, illustrates this tendency in a larger center. Newspaper advertising in January 1922 was 9 per cent less than that carried in December. General business in January increased over the December figures. Newspaper lineage, however, developed during the first two months of 1922. Both advertising lineage and general business increased in March 1922 and advertising turned downward in May. General business followed that same month."

"Newspaper advertising turning downward between June and July forecast the decline in general business which started in the following month. Advertising decreased between May and June, business turning down definitely in June. Advertising started up in September with general business. It turned down between October and November and was followed by business activity the same month. In the year 1922, both general business and advertising increased in February and advertising again turned downward in May, general business following in June. Lineage increased in September and was paralleled by business in October."

WANTS INSURANCE MEN TO ORGANIZE

Organization of a local branch of the Wisconsin Association of Insurance Agents is contemplated here, with a possible meeting for that purpose on Feb. 28. The chamber of commerce has been asked in a letter from Earl B. Fisk of Green Bay, state president, to assist by calling a meeting of all local agents on the above date, when Mr. Fisk will be in Appleton to give a talk.

Oshkosh, Green Bay, Eau Claire, Racine, Kenosha, Waukesha, and other cities now have branches. Mr. Fisk says, and he desires that Appleton have one also. Its purpose would be to hold meetings to discuss problems, establish closer relations between agents and secure cooperation in bettering the public's interests generally in insurance matters.

Secretary Hugh G. Corbett will confer with a number of insurance men with respect to holding a noon luncheon on Feb. 28 at which Mr. Fisk will be a guest.

Scouts Given Bird Lore In Nature Study

Mrs. W. E. Rogers will give instruction in birds and flowers to girl scouts and campfire girls at Playhouse of Appleton Women's club at 230 Saturday afternoon. A number of the members of both groups are working for nature study honors.

The girls are being reminded that their papers on bird observation should be written before Saturday and handed to Mrs. Rogers. At her last instruction, Mrs. Rogers suggested that the girls hang bags of dust near their windows and then watch what birds come to eat it. A description and identification of each bird was to be written by each girl and would count toward her nature study work.

with respect to holding a noon luncheon on Feb. 28 at which Mr. Fisk will be a guest.

SAENGERFEST DATE IS SUNDAY, JUNE 1

Big Valley Lutheran Gathering Probably Will Be Held At Jones Park

Sunday, June 1, is the date set for the annual saengerfest of evangelical Lutheran churches of the Fox River valley, according to a decision of the local arrangements committee at a meeting in St. Paul school hall Tuesday evening.

Jones park probably will be the scene of the gathering of perhaps 10,000 people. This will be decided definitely later.

Subcommittees were appointed and other arrangements discussed. The women of the local churches will be asked to serve the meals to the visitors.

Albert Woods is chairman of the general committee and the other members are the Rev. Fred Brandt and Ernest Schulz, principal of St. Paul school.

HALL WILLING TO PERMIT FISHING

A favorable attitude has been taken by Elmer S. Hall, state conservation commissioner, to the petition of thousands of fishermen in the Fox River valley for alteration of the present law whereby fishing of all kinds is prohibited in the waters of Lake Winnebago, Fox River and Wolf river between March 1 and June 1 of every year.

Mr. Hall is conducting an investigation in the matter and will probably reach a conclusion soon as to whether the present regulations can be changed without action of the legislature. He said there have been instances in the past when the conservation commission permitted changes under similar circumstances. In such instances sportsmen of the vicinity affected were asked to give an expression and if there was no objection the change was made.

Whether such action can be done in the present instance has not been determined. It is possible that the legislation removed such authority from the commission. It is expected that the commission will ask the legislature to amend the law which abolished the open seasons in the Fox and Wolf river valleys if it was his intention to completely abolish the season. Under the present law fishing is prohibited during the season when the white bass are "running."

93-Year-Old Rubicon Woman Head Of Five Generations

BETTY JUNE in the accompanying picture is not yet old enough to do any boasting, but if she were, might lay claim to having the greatest war mother in the state.

Betty June is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schrimpf, 698 Main st., and her "mother" is one who fills that position from several "great" and "grand" steps higher. But she thinks "great-great-grandmother" is much too long a word to repeat.

This venerable lady at the head of five generations is Mrs. Catherine Bales, who is 93 years old. She lives in Rubicon, Wis., but is often visited in Appleton with her daughter, Mrs. Angelina Brill, 1288 Law venant. She enjoys the distinction of having nine grandsons and great grandsons who served in the World war.

The fourth link in this chain of generations is supplied by Edward J. Brill, 1291 Lawrence st., who is Mrs. Bales' grandson and Mrs. Angelina Brill's son.

113 DESCENDANTS The entire family of Mrs. Bales consists of 10 children, 7 of whom are living, 23 grandchildren, 74 great-grandchildren and 9 great-great-grandchildren. She was 86 years old when she assumed the title of great-great-grandmother for the first time.

Mrs. Bales was born in Germany on Dec. 21, 1830, and came to America in August, 1852, after spending 24 days on the ocean in a sailboat. She settled in Wisconsin and was married here. Her present home is with her son on a farm near Rubicon.

Mrs. Angelina Brill, wife of the late M. H. Brill, was born in Dodge co. on Dec. 25, 1857. She has six children living. Two have died, one, Sylvester, in Camp Georgia in 1918. She has 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Edward J. Brill son of Mrs. Angelina Brill, was born July 25, 1877, and has always lived in Appleton.

By Associated Press Washington, D. C.—Senate opposition to appointment of George B. Christian, secretary to President Harding, as member of the Federal Trade commission led to withdrawal by Christian Wednesday of Mr. Christian's nomination at the request of the nominee.

Mr. Christian had been invited to come before the Senate Interstate Commerce committee to explain a statement made by Huston Thompson, the trade chairman, "that someone" tried to use Mr. Christian's office in the White House to forestall government action against a motion picture concern.

Instead of accepting the committee's invitation, the former secretary asked President Coolidge to cancel the appointment.

LETTERS FROM MRS. JOSEPH
GRAVES HAMILTON TO
LESLIE PRESCOTT

This is the first time, my dear daughter, that I have felt I could sit down and talk to you in the way
I usually do in my letters.

Your father has been lying out doors in the porch swing all day.
He was able to walk out of the room this morning and seemed quite like himself.

I have not heard from Alice in over a week. Suppose she is very busy getting ready to be presented at court.

Oh, my dear child, when I think of it all it seems like a fairy tale to me. You know, my dear, I had little education and your father even less than I. I don't know that I ever told you, but we spent all the evenings of the first two years after we were married poring over books and trying to learn.

Of course your father is one of the greatest steel men in the country today and I believe there is nothing about a steel mill or steel machinery that he does not know. He has learned it all in the hard school of experience and what he could get from books in his evenings.

Alice, about Alice's age, when you were born dear, and we were so very poor that someone who knew and liked your father in the mills persuaded his wife to send me your layette. I had to be up and around my house a little over a week after you were born, dear, but thank God we both were always well.

I can't pretend to describe to you all the sacrifices and economies that I practiced. I never dreamed that I would be able to give you the splendid education that is yours and certainly I never dreamed that one of my daughters would be presented at England's court.

Your father and I were talking about it the other night and we agreed that all this is a part of the heritage of America. Your father said, "That is the reason why I allowed Leslie to marry a comparatively poor man and why I didn't leave a half million dollars on her at the time of marriage. I believe that every man and woman should strike out for themselves. I would not for anything in the world take away from Jack and Leslie the great joy that you and I had of saving and sacrificing."

Truly it is a joy Leslie. You will come to know that when you have lived along far enough to get the right perspective on all the little upheavals of your first years of marriage.

From the tone of your letters lately, dear, I have come to the conclusion that you have been having one of those upheavals now. I do not want to pry into your affairs, but please let me tell you that the first three years of married life are the crucial ones. In them you must really get acquainted with your husband and adjust yourselves to an entirely different environment and mode of living. Whenever you feel that maybe John is not as fine and splendid as you first imagined, do not forget that he may be having the same disappointment over you.

I intended to write you a newsy letter but instead I am preaching a little. I'll close before I become prosy.
LOVINGLY, MOTHER.

her. Usually when one has to have one's nose bandaged, he stays indoors till it's off. I mean until the bandage is off—not the nose!

But then, dear only knows, perhaps the Maid-in-the-Garden's nose was off. The poem certainly said that the blackbird picked it off!

"I—I'm sorry that we appear to be so greedy," Nancy finally found her voice to say. "But we were just trying to be hospitable. We're new in Daddy Gander Land, you know."

"That reminds me of what I came for," said the Maid-in-the-Garden quickly. "Did Daddy Gander happen to leave his magic dust pan around? I've swept up twelve times today after the Queen and my back is nearly broken. The magic dust pan gets 'em all up in a jiffy the minute it touches the floor and I'm sure he wouldn't mind letting me have it."

"Of course he wouldn't mind," said Nick. "Here it is!"

Spring Will Bring Suit Into Style

Revival Of Strictly Tailored Suit Seen In Fashions Now Revealed

Leading among all spring fashions is the revival of the strictly tailored suit. We saw it here and there during the autumn as worn by the ultra smart, again, for the south, interpreted in white flannel, alpaca, kasha cloth or heavy crepe, but here it is for spring in reps, twill, corda, oxford, covers, and silk alpaca. One of the season's favorites is the black hair line stripe.

GRACEFUL LINES
A certain relaxation of line and easy grace are requisites of the new suits. The more severe, the smarter. Sometimes it is a chic, double or single breasted creation buttoning with one, two or three buttons, other times it is a linked affair bound with tailor's silk braid. Whatever the model, it must be correct from the width of its notched lapel to the diameter of its shiny black buttons. The tailored skirt, whether wrap or otherwise, is entirely different, as it hangs from the new hip waistline and boasts a flat French back.

Another designer adopts Chinese lines in a three-piece suit, the coat of which features the inch-wide up-standing collar that buttons at the neck and flares from there down to reveal a tucked, white silk waist to which the skirt is buttoned all around. The suit is attractively piped in white, and is quite arresting in line.

IMPORTANT ACCESSORIES
As important as the suit are its accessories. A plain tailored shirt boasting a tucked bosom adorned by a tab at the bottom where the money is often embroidered vies with the shirt that has a round collar from which hangs a narrow, bright colored tie, one end of which may be mono grammed. The vest of white pique, linen, moire, bengaline, or even printed silk, in smart instances replaces the blouse. A gardenia delicately nestling in a buttonhole, a gleaming silver fob or colored chiffon handkerchief hanging from a pocket are the only frivolous touches permitted. A brimless cloche, or tricorne, tops the salhouette and the underarm envelope purse and colorful scarf complete it.

However strong the suit vogue, the tailored dress plays its part. Its lines are straight, short and slender. Backs remain plain, and scarfs appear everywhere. Many of the new models are beltless, but owing a short cape from the shoulder. This cape is an important item in the spring collections, whether of wool or of silk. A beltless model at the National Safety Council, now applied stripes of fabric to achieve skirt distinction, while the cape is sleeve also arrest attention. Coat frocks have their following. Printed foulards and navy blue twill are combined to make a striking "two-in-one" dress. A printed foulard skirt ruffled down the center may, for the street, slip on an overdress of cloth, slit up the front to reveal the underdress. A charming afternoon dress thus becomes a tailored street dress.

BOYISH MODELS FOR SLIM
The boyish two-piece tailored models seem primarily designed for the bob and the slim figure. Collars and sleeves have come once more into their own which accounts for the reappearance of tuckers, collars and cuffs of dainty lace, pique or linen which now complete so many gowns. The materials most favored for tailored frocks include twill cords in striped and checked effects. Black crepe and will alpaca are the choice for afternoon wear.

Besides the severely tailored suit and tailored dress the three-piece suit of dress and coat connotes more latitude to its wearer though here also the costume abides by simple lines. Straight and simple, the dress may reveal a circular movement in front, the back remaining plain. Here again a scarf or collar will in all probability complete the dress, while the coat is short more often than it is three-quarter length.

FASHION HINTS

IDEAS FOR SPORT

Short coats of flannel in white or gray colors are shown for sport wear, and vests of this material are revealed beneath the smart tailcoats of dark seige.

PRINTED KERCHIEF

The printed kerchief of chiffon or silk in overtone is emphasized as the necessary adjunct for the spring suit. It is quite a feature in millinery, too.

MONOGRAM OR POCKET

The pocket is considered now the desirable place to park the very desirable monogram.

FUR AND FEATHERS

A fur coat of unusual gorgeousness is lined with velvet and has a festoon of ostrich feathers, making an ornament revealed only when the lining shows.

DAINTY GARTERS

French garters of orchid ribbon have dainty ruffles or real Val lace and tiny gold tissue roebucks.

SATIN NEGLIGEE

An unusually lovely negligee is made of shell-pink satin and banded with white marion.

WHITE AND COLORS

White flannel frocks embroidered with gay colors in yarn or coarse silk are very attractive.

Woman Leads, Man Backs Up Dancing Leap Year Fox Trot

New York—Leap year has given women the prerogative of backing man around dance halls—at last.

Arthur Murray, New York dancing instructor, has considered this year in which woman is supreme and devised a fox trot of which she is master. Besides assuming the right of filling out her own dance card, the girl of 1924 will, this year at least, lead her male companion out of the way of pillars and posts. However, girls, before accepting the responsibility, listen to some good advice by the originator of this idea.

"To be a good leader," Murray warns, "it is absolutely necessary to know the steps. A woman can no longer depend on being merely an intelligent follower, with no particular form or style."

"Using her right arm to hold the man firmly, her hand placed securely beneath his shoulder blades, and looking over his right shoulder, she is in the correct position to start the dance."

"She can no longer blame men for the strange hold and the cheek to cheek dancing which is supposed to be the flapper's contribution to terpsichorean history. She can bring about any innovations in the ball room she sees fit."

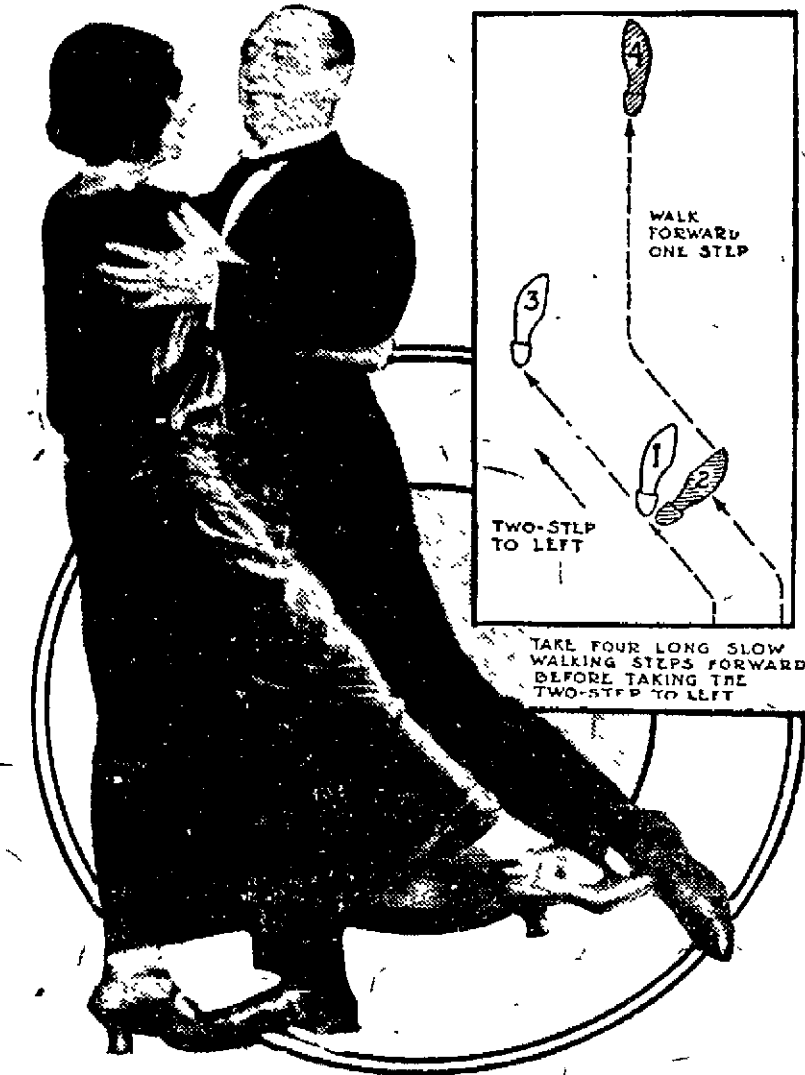

"But after a year in power, I warrant she will be glad to surrender her leadership to man again," he concludes.

INSTRUCTIONS
Here's how the leap year fox trot:

The woman begins with her left foot and walks four steps forward—1, 2, 3, 4. Then take a two-step to the left with the left foot, continuing 1, 2, 3, sliding the left foot to the left on one, drawing the right foot up to the left on two and sliding with the left foot to the left on three.

After taking the two-step as described walk forward one long, slow step with the right foot.

Meanwhile the man follows this course. He begins with the right foot and takes four long, slow, walking steps backward, then with the right foot takes a two-step to the right, counting 1, 2, 3, sliding his right foot to the right on one, drawing the left foot to the right on two, and sliding right foot to the right on three. Then he walks backward one long step with the left foot.

HOME DRY-CLEANING PERILS

BY J. I. BANASII
Vice Chairman Engineering Section, National Safety Council

Everyone should know that gasoline, benzene, naphtha and similar products are highly inflammable and explosive and should be kept away from an open flame. There is that unfortunate individual who lights a match to see if his gas tank is empty or uses gasoline to start a fire in the kitchen stove, but most of the victims of gasoline explosions are those who thoughtlessly use gasoline for dry cleaning in the home.

Serious accidents from the use of gasoline, often resulting in fatal burns and heavy fire losses, are an almost daily occurrence. Gasoline is inflammable, but that is perhaps the least of its dangers. As long as it remains in the liquid state it is comparatively harmless, but at ordinary temperature it evaporates quickly and the vapor, when mixed with the proper proportion of air, forms a very explosive mixture. In fact, a gallon of gasoline mixed with air at the point of excess proportion may have the explosive force of 80 pounds of dynamite.

A spark will ignite the mixture as easily as a lighted match and it also can be ignited by incandescent material when heated above the ignition point. The vapor may take fire many feet from the gasoline itself and spread back to the container. The vapor is heavier than air and remains close to the floor; consequently open windows will not always carry it off. To use gasoline in a basin or tub indoors is to invite disaster. To use it outdoors is less dangerous but not to be recommended.

Of course, home cleaning at times is more or less necessary and there are plenty of cleaning compounds on the market which are non-inflammable and non-explosive and equally good for cleaning purposes. When it is necessary to keep gasoline, naphtha or any combustible fluid in the house it should be kept in approved safety cans and the quantity in the building should be kept as low as possible. In most large cities local regulations fix the maximum amount which can be kept in a building.

Sister Mary's Kitchen

(Unless otherwise specified, these recipes are planned for four persons.)

RAISINS
Try adding raisins to meats, as well as to breads and cakes. The result will be nourishing and delicious.

One-fourth cup of finely chopped raisins mixed with one-half pound hamburger steak adds much to the flavor.
A few raisins sprinkled over ham while baking in cider or grape juice improves the dish.
Raisin sauce for meats is novel but piquant with boiled meats, beef heart or liver.

RAISIN SAUCE FOR MEATS
Three-fourths cup seeded and chopped raisins, 2 tablespoons butter, 1½ tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup water, ½ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoon paprika, ½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Melt butter, stir in flour and add raisins. Stir in lemon juice and water. Add seasoning and cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth.
Protein, 19 calories carbohydrate, 374 calories, fat, 254 calories. Iron, .0057 gram.

SAUCE FOR PUDDINGS

One cup seeded and chopped raisins, 1½ cups boiling water, ½ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, few grains salt.

Cook raisins slowly in the boiling water for ten minutes. Add sugar.

Fix Sandwiches For Breakfast

The breakfast sandwich has long existed, but it has only recently been recognized by this time. After all, what is a poached egg on toast but an open-face sandwich of a sort? The familiar bacon may come to the breakfast-table in the same service with the rolls if the rolls are split, toasted and buttered and the broiled tender bacon placed between them. Each is especially delicious when served between crisply toasted slices of corn bread that have been well buttered.

Creamed oysters on toast, scrambled eggs on buttered toast spread with anchovy paste, creamed codfish between two slices of buttered toast are all in the breakfast category of sandwiches. A variation of French toast that takes it out of the sweet, and puts it in the meat class is made by spreading buttered slices of bread with deviled ham, putting the slices together in twos, dipping them in a mixture of egg and milk in the proportion of two eggs to one cup of milk, and then sauteing the slices in butter until they are nicely brown on both sides.

Even those breakfast standbys of the old days—pancakes—have their own possibilities. The old-fashioned

How To Cook Sauer Kraut

Many people enjoy a dinner of sauerkraut once in a while. If the dish is cooked in the oven the unpleasant odor is somewhat curtailed.

While raw cabbage is more easily digested and of greater food value than cooked cabbage, cabbage in any form is a wholesome, hearty food. These recipes may be a bit out of the ordinary and may help solve the eternal problem of what to eat.

If wieners are not liked, spareribs can be substituted.

KRAUT AND DUMPLINGS
Two pounds of kraut, eight wieners, one cup flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon baking powder, milk to make a soft dough.

Put kraut in a tightly covered kettle with water to cover. Cook slowly for two hours, adding water as necessary. Wash wieners and cut a tiny slice from each end. Add to kraut and cook an hour longer. Mix and sift flour, salt and baking powder. Cut in milk to make a soft dough. Drop by teaspoons onto the kraut, cover tightly and cook 20 minutes. Serve at once.

This dish provides starch in the dumplings, mineral salts in the kraut, protein and fat in the meat and adds bulk to the meal. A nourishing cream soup and substantial dessert round out the menu. Brown or entire wheat bread should be used.

KRAUT AND POTATOES
One pound kraut, four potatoes, butter, salt and pepper, one-fourth cup cracker crumbs.

Boil and mash potatoes. Season with salt, pepper and butter. Cook kraut for 30 minutes and drain. Put a layer of kraut in a buttered baking dish. Dot with bits of butter and cover with a layer of potatoes. Continue alternating layers of kraut and potatoes until all is used. There should be equal parts of kraut and potato. Cover with cracker crumbs and bake in a moderate oven for 45 minutes.

This is another method for preparing kraut with potatoes. The potatoes rather alleviate the kraut flavor, making a really palatable dish.

KRAUT AND POTATOES II
One tablespoon lard, one pint kraut two cups seasoned mashed potatoes, buttered bread crumbs.

Melt lard in a deep kettle, add kraut and cook for 20 minutes. Put kraut in a buttered baking dish, dot with butter and add a layer of seasoned mash potatoes. Continue layer for layer of kraut and potatoes until all is used. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

country sausage may be cut in rounds of pancake also, filed a delicate brown and served between hot, savory pancakes. Another pancake sandwich is made by placing thinly sliced apples on top of the pancake batter as it is poured on the griddle, covering with another layer of the batter and frying in the usual manner. This addition of a bit of fruit is a healthful addition to the pancake mixture.—From the Delinicator.

Women Not Weaker Sex Any More

Educator Points To Growing Sex Equality Shown In Modern Girl

New York—The old idea that woman is weaker physically than man will be as obsolete as the feeling that she is inferior mentally.

This may be the situation if Dr. Celia Duell Mosher of Leland Stanford University, whose book, "Woman's Physical Freedom," has just been published, has sized up the matter correctly.

"Increased scientific knowledge of woman's physiology has shown that the physical weakness and incapacity supposed to be inherent to sex are not due to sex at all, but to removable causes," she says.

"With her characteristic directness the modern girl has grasped this fact and proceeded to remove the removable. She has done this by exercising sensible clothes and sensible diet."

The sweet frailty of those languid heroines of Dickens and Thackeray with their fainting, listlessness, hysterics and neurotics were the result of wrong clothes and lack of exercise, Dr. Mosher avers.

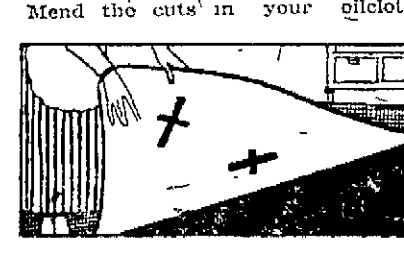

In a group of 92 college students examined by Dr. Mosher in the 90's skirts varied from nine to 15 feet in width with an average of 13½ feet. The weight of these garments suspended from tightly laced waists was often greater than the combined weight of all the clothing worn by the girl of today.

"Today," she contrasts, "the college woman, mentioned particularly because she happens to be more available for statistics, with her larger waist and lithe body is already an inch and two-tenths taller than the girl of 30 years ago and she is fit for any kind of work."

So she believes it is the coming generation that will really answer the much discussed question as to what women's real capabilities are. Then, for the first time in history, women will measure up evenly against the men of their generation.

Miss M. Mitchell Tells How Cuticura Healed Her Mother

"My mother had a bad breaking out on her head which caused her much trouble day and night by burning and itching. It took the form of blisters at first and then sealed over. It looked terrible and her hair fell out. She lost sleep on account of the irritation, and had been troubled for years."

"She read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and purchased some. After the first application she felt better, and after using two boxes of Cuticura Ointment, together with the Cuticura Soap, she was completely healed." # However, Comma

BY JAMES W. DEAN

New York—A play that has a strong final curtain scene is as rare on Broadway as a walking stick in Omaha. Even in "Outward Bound," the best play of the season, the last act is considerably weaker than the first two. And Shaw's gorgeous "St. John" is marred with a silly epilogue.

And so when a play such as Clemence Dane's "The Way Things Happen" comes to town there is cause for rejoicing. The final curtain comes down upon a rousing situation, upon a great conflict of emotions. It is by far the most stirring moment of the play.

A girl has sacrificed and suffered for the man she loves. They arrive at the place where he must realize his obligation to the girl, or allow her to part from him.

There is nothing especially new in this situation, but it gains force through the manner in which Miss Dane has handled the details of action. She converts a woman's cry of hate into an avowal of love, which it usually is. And in the moment of the man's regeneration the curtain comes down.

This play is by no means so substantial a work as either "Will Shakespeare" or "A Bill of Divorcement," two plays by Miss Dane which met with only indifferent success in the United States. However, the very effective final scene of "The Way Things Happen" promises for it a greater success than was attained by the playwright's previous plays.

WEST GREEN BAY SEEKS REVENGE ON ORANGE FIVE

Baymen Meet Appleton Highs Here Friday In Attempt To Lift Jinx

Second String Plays DeMolay In Curtain Raiser On Armory G Court; Seek To Bolster Record

West Green Bay eagles are coming to Appleton Friday primed to give the Orange cagers the battle of their lives. Early in the season, the Appleton youngsters invaded the Bay city and treated the west side scholars to a 17 to 13 drubbing on their own court after the Baymen had been touted to win by a close margin. At that time the West side cagers looked like a set of coming champs, but later they ran up against a jinx which has kept them within one or two points of winning in every contest they played.

Rather and Clark, flashy forwards, have played a fine game all through the season, and Roudon, center is a hard man to beat anywhere. These three men have been making most of the points for their outfit, and supported by Bouchier and Campshire at guard expect to come out of their slump Friday and humble the Orange.

QUINT RESTS MONDAY
Coach Wilson gave his youngsters a rest Monday after they had humiliated East Green Bay and Neenah over the week end to avoid a repetition of their performance at Fond du Lac where the Appleton boys went stale and dropped their first game. They are working hard and although handicapped by having to practice on handball courts in Appleton high school, their showing promises to give West Green Bay another taste of defeat.

For a curtain raiser Friday the second string, coached by Guy Eklund, will play a team of local cagers. Last week they dropped a contest with the Neenah second string after a hard fight, and will attempt to vindicate themselves here Friday. This was the second loss they have been forced to chalk up this season, the previous one having been by the Lawrence seconds several weeks ago.

GRIDIRON STAR ALSO GOES BIG IN BASKETBALL

Ray Eklund, One Of The Best Gridders In Country, Makes Good Forward

Minneapolis, Minn.—One of the best tankers in the country last season was Ray Eklund, star end of the University of Minnesota. Along with Earl Martineau, Eklund was the main cog in the Spaulding machine.

That was in football. But in basketball Eklund, if anything, is an even greater star. As forward on the Minnesota quintet he has been the outstanding luminary in practically every game his team has played. As a basketball player, Ray is as fast as a "one like an eagle" when it comes to dropping the ball through the meshwork.

In the recent tilt with Michigan Eklund played a big part in helping Minnesota overhaul the Maize and Blue advantage, and with the assistance of Coach Shover's team in the lead which looked for a time sufficient to trip the Michigan boys. As it was, a basket in the final 30 seconds of play alone prevented the Northmen from turning the trick.

Eklund is a senior at the Gopher institution. And for three seasons now he has been one of the school's mainstays on the gridiron as well as in basketball. Minnesota coaches call him one of the best two-spot men that the university has had in many campaigns.

MARSANS WILL TEACH GIANTS HOW TO STEAL

Havana—Armando Marsans, Cuban hall player who was noted in his career in the major leagues between 1911 and 1918 for his ability to run bases and slide into second, has been employed by Manager John J. McGraw to teach his art to the youngsters on the Giant team. It was learned on Tuesday from McGraw who is here on a visit. The battery men of the Giant squad will start practice at Sarasota, Fla., on Saturday.

CRACK OHIO WELTER SEEMS TO BE SLIPPING

BROKEN ANKLE PREVENTS WHITE-GIBBONS BATTLE

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Joe White, New York light-heavyweight, scheduled to meet Tommy Gibbons here Friday night will be unable to appear because of a broken ankle, it became known here Tuesday. ## W. I. A. A. ANNOUNCES RULES FOR DISTRICT BASKETBALL MEETS

Pewaukee High School Quintet Is Suspended For Infractions

Fond du Lac—Bulletin No. 2 of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association which has just been issued to the principals of Wisconsin high schools is given over to facts and details in connection with the coming district tournaments which are to be played in sixteen tournament centers of the state.

Changes in district assignments are as follows. Prairie du Sac to Bosc Head, Mount Horeb to Platteville, Whitesville to Platteville, Neillville to Eau Claire, Rub Lake to Rhinelander, Dodgeville to Platteville and Greenwood to Wisconsin Rapids. In the method of selecting teams for tournament play it was decided that each team desiring consideration must report at once results of all games to date to the district manager. Local managers in each of the five districts will meet with the board member on March 1. Elimination games may be ordered for the week of March 5.

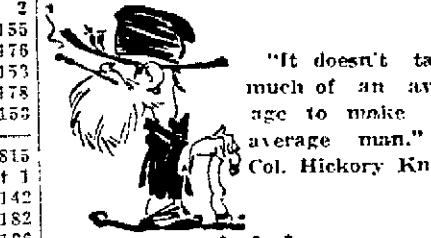

The alphabetical plan of drawing was unanimously approved. The second day's games will find the afternoon losers and evening winners. On the third day the second day losers and the second day afternoon winners play in the afternoon and in the evening the winner of afternoon games play for third place and winners of second evening games for first and second. Eight sets of medals will be awarded to each of the first three teams and a mounted silver basketball to the winning team.

The state board has notified the University of Chicago basketball tournament committee that no Wisconsin team would be granted permission to compete until the rules of eligibility of the state tournament are approved. The Pewaukee High school was suspended from W. I. A. A. competition until July 1, 1924, because Pewaukee had played three men this winter who were declared ineligible last fall by the board.

Jack Meets Kid Parke

CHAMPION DEMPSEY HOLDING CHAMPION PARKE
Jack Dempsey, who is identified with the prizefight business in the capacity of heavy-weight champion, sauntered out to the race track in New Orleans the other day.
"What horses is this Kid Parke riding?" the champion asked.
And they told him.
That day Parke rode two winners home and was in the money three other times.
"You sure are some rider," complimented the fighter, between races.
"I hear you are some fighter, too," came back young Ivan Parke, the sixteen year old riding sensation of the turf.

State League Status Looks Unpromising As Clubs Take Stock

Last Season's Financial Failure Forces Several Teams To Drop Out Of Loop; Some Favor Home Talent

Baseball fans of Appleton are beginning to wonder whether this city will be represented in the State league magnates seems in prospect, at least for the near future, and no one appears to know what is going on in that respect. Rumors have been scheduled a convocation here for "next week," but since they started several weeks ago and "next week" never brought a meeting, the general public can not be blamed for growing skepticism.

Manager Harry Sylvester has declared himself willing to play on the Appleton team if it is organized, but says he will not take over the management. He has had several offers for his club, but none of them appeal to him and so it still remains on his hands. The national sport was not particularly successful from a financial standpoint last season, and several cities in the league have dropped out or are planning such a step.

WANT EVERY DAY BALL
Green Bay is demanding every day baseball. According to reports from there Sunday and holiday games fail to draw a large enough attendance to make both ends meet, and supporters of the sport are clamoring for a radical change.

The outlook at Oshkosh is extremely doubtful. Bud Ebel, owner of the club, is looking for a purchaser. Fond du Lac, under the tutelage of the Faris brothers, is planning to work toward home talent teams and Kaukauna also favors this plan to cut the salary list in half. The Paper makers had but one outside player last season and probably will repeat this themselves on the same basis this year when the time is ripe.

With several teams straggling, the news that Antigo and Wausau are ready to enter the league is welcome to the magnates.

Descamps Will Bring Two New Stars With Him

Francis Descamps, oily-tongued manager of George's Carpenter, has assembled a stable of sponge eaters which he intends to bring over to America in the summer along with the Gorgonzola One.

The French manager admits that two of his new charges are first-rate stars.
These two are Paul Ritsch, a lightweight, and Johnny Sullivan, a welterweight.
Ritsch is a graduate of the amateur rings and battled in the Olympic bouts four years ago.
Sullivan is a Londoner of Irish extraction, and Descamps thinks he is destined to be a great puncher.

COLLEGIANS PLAY MILLMEN AS UNION JACKS JUMP GAME

Canadian Basketball Quintet Fails To Show Up For Contest At Kimberly

More than 300 fans were kept waiting in the new Kimberly clubhouse Wednesday night while the manager of the Mill quintet drove to Appleton in a taxi to get a team to replace the Raymond, Alta., Union Jacks who failed to show up. The Union Jacks are on a tour of the middle west, and recently agreed to play the Kimberly Millmen. The Canucks were scheduled to play the Oconto Legion team at Oconto Tuesday night, but according to a report from that city, failed to show up there also. No notification of a change in plans was sent to either case, and as the games were extensively advertised, it meant considerable disappointment.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP

The Kimberly fans were told that the Canadian team had failed to show up and that they might get their money back if they desired, but that an Appleton team would play the Millmen for the benefit of anyone who wished to stay. It speaks extremely well for the sportsmanship of the mill fans that only two claimed their refund, and the rest remained while a fraternity team was brought from Lawrence college.

The Greek Lettermen romped off with a 26 to 22 victory, after the Millmen staged a comeback in the second half, which collapsed in the second. The collegians led, 24 to 12 at the end of the first half and looked like easy winners. But in the second, the Kimberly team got back into its old form and made it 26 to 22 before the final whistle blew.

The Kaukauna Badger girls humbled a team of Kimberly Mill girls, 6 to 2 in the opener, after a hard tussle. The invaders showed remarkable speed and wonderful eyes for baskets, and their floor work had the home team guessing from start to finish.

Mrs. Harold Hutchings of Winnipeg, Wintering in California, set two course records, a 77 at Del Monte and an 82 at Pebble Beach both tough courses. Mrs. Hutchings went to the semifinals in the Canadian championship last summer.

BADGER ATHLETES FACE BUSY PERIOD OF SEVEN EVENTS

Week's Work Starts With Swimming Meet With Minnesota Tank Stars

Madison—Seven Wisconsin variety teams will get into competition this week in one of the biggest athletics weeks of the winter schedule. Beginning with the swimming meet with Minnesota here Wednesday night practically every athlete in the university will get into action. The Badgers will go into the tank Wednesday night in a badly crippled condition but with plenty of fight and determination to win.

Friday and Saturday Coach Blodgett's ice hockey team plays return matches with Marquette at Milwaukee.

But Saturday is the big day for Wisconsin athletes. In the afternoon Coach Hiltbrink's wrestlers meet the strong Michigan grapplers on the mat here in Madison and at the same time Coach Schlatter's gymnasts and fencers meet Chicago. All these matches are expected to be close.

Cochran McDaniel's basketball team leaves Monday for Columbus, O., where they meet the strong Ohio team on Saturday night. No team in the conference has been coming any stronger than Ohio in the last three weeks and the Badgers will have to be at their best to win and remain in the lead in the conference championship race.

Saturday night the crack Iowa track team meets Coach Jones' Badgers in the gymnasium annex in what promises to be one of the closest, hardest fought dual meets of the year. Headed by Brookins, world's record holder in the hurdles, the Iowa team has four likely candidates for the Olympic team. Coach Brown, former assistant to Coach Jones here at Wisconsin, has a team of stars while Coach Jones' team lacks the individual stars but as demonstrated in the quadrangular meets with Northwestern, Ohio, and Chicago, which the Badgers won last week, has a wellbalanced team which will fight hard in every event.

Last Saturday while the track team was winning at Evanston, the Wisconsin basketball team defeated Illinois here in Madison and the wrestlers defeated Minnesota at Minneapolis.

MANY USES FOUND BY PACKERS FOR THEIR PRODUCTS

Use "Everything But Squal" Is Popular Slogan Of Industry

Washington—"A use for everything but the squal" is still the motto of the meat packing industry, and truer than ever before, but there is more than that to it, says the Institute of American Meat Packers. Not only are many unique and interesting uses found for every part of the slaughtered animal, but the by-products industry, as a financial proposition, rapidly is growing in importance.

The hides and bones long have furnished important raw materials in the shape of leathers and fertilizers, but the bones now have an important use also for medical purposes. Blood is one of the first important by-products, and serum, for use in research work as a culture for growing bacteria, is obtained by separating the corpuscles from the blood. In dry form the serum is also used to clear the composition used in coating photographic papers.

Blood albumen is used in the manufacture of water-proof glue for veneer work, aeroplanes wings and other special uses. Blood from which the fibrin has been removed is emulsified and other fancy uses. Hog hair is especially sought for cushion stuffing by automobile and furniture manufacturers. The fine hairs from the interior of the ears of cattle are a satisfactory high grade substitute for the camel's hair used in artists' brushes.

Wool recovered from the washed pelts of slaughtered sheep is bought by manufacturers of shoddy to be worked in with wool recovered from old woolen rugs to give it life. The grease recovered in the washing when purified and prepared, is used extensively as a base for ointments and cold creams because it does not irritate the skin.

The best horns and hoofs are softened in steam, split and pressed into sheets from which are cut combs, buttons, boxes, handles and many other articles. The sawdust from cuttings nearly becomes a fertilizer known as hog manure. The inner portion of the hoofs give up the substance from which are made glue and neat's foot oil. From skin and other bones of fine texture, handles for cutlery, pipe stems, dice, chess men, electrical bushings, artificial teeth, crochet needles, buttons for pressing boots, and other small articles are produced. Some are carved and dyed to resemble stag horn.

RUHR RAILROADS POORLY MANAGED

Cologne—Railway disorganization will prevent the Ruhr district from returning speedily to normal, even if the French and Germans reach agreements which remove other barriers. German warnings that the French would not be able to handle the intricate railway system of the heavily industrialized Ruhr as a Rhineland districts have been more than realized.

No other equal area in the world perhaps, has such an involved railway system. It is a medley of the Pittsburgh steel area and the West Virginia mining district, jammed together and served by an intricate interlocking system which has ever continued to be much of a mystery to French railway men and their assistants.

Signal towers and railway equipment have suffered at the hands of the strangers who got trains through at any cost, and had no time to respect mechanism. There has been a general demoralization of the mechanical equipment which must be overcome before coal, coke and iron can move again in quantity with speed and precision.

Since January little has been done in the way of making repairs. Although the traffic has not been large as compared with pre-occupation days, it has been conducted at great expense to equipment. The French have done as well, perhaps, as could any strangers in hostile territory where even the friendly workers had no leisure in coming with the invaders. It was a hard task, made doubly hard by sabotage. And the Ruhr population will pay dearly for the demoralization which stands in the way of speedy resumption on a large scale.

GERMAN STEEL MEASURES ARE FOUND INACCURATE

Bradford, Eng.—Peculiarities of certain steel yard measures, made in Germany and exported for sale in this country and other parts of the world, were brought to light recently at a meeting of the Bradford Chamber of Commerce.

A buyer found that cloth delivered to him as 31 inches wide measured a little more than 30 inches. Another piece was of cloth marked 35 inches which actually measured 37. Investigation showed that the German measures, were used.

Similar complaints, it was said, had been received from Japan and South America.

ONE CANDIDATE IS ALREADY OUT FOR U. S. PRESIDENCY

Single Tax Party Is First To Select Nominee For Chief Executive

Newark, N. J.—The first presidential nominee for the 1924 race has stolen a lap on the field.

He is William J. Wallace, named as standard bearer of the Commonwealth Land Party, formerly the Sing Tax Party. His running mate is J. C. Lincoln of Cleveland, selected for the vice presidency without any opposition.

At the party's national convention, in the Engineering Societies Building in New York, delegates from 14 states, among them Alabama, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Oklahoma and Rhode Island—named their candidates, drew up their platform, and started right out after votes while the members of the major parties are still juggling around for delegates to the nominating convention.

They expect to campaign in 35 states and poll 750,000 votes!

Which is some improvement over the several hundred votes tallied in 1912, when Wallace ran for the first time.

It was his debut in politics, and his party's entry into the national field.

"We called it the Land Value Party then," he recounts smiling, "and had less than 15 workers in the group. We couldn't get our names printed on the ballots. So we wrote them in ourselves."

"But this year it will be different." Wallace is a kindly man, 54 years old, who is a manufacturer of electric motors, when he isn't studying up on the land question.

He was born on the West Side of New York, and started work when he was 15.

"I never gave politics much thought," he went on. "I was too busy making a living. But the panic of '73, unemployment and poverty with its consequences, set me thinking about the precariousness of our situations."

"I wanted to know what brought such conditions about. I wanted to find out how they could be avoided. But I couldn't find out what I was looking for. My teacher at night school couldn't help me. The books I read didn't enlighten me, until one day I ran across Henry George's 'Progress and Poverty.'"

"I found the answer. It lay in the solution of our land problem. 'From 1888, when I first read the book, until 1910 I did nothing politically. I voted, of course, casting my ballots for those candidates who I thought to be best."

"But in 1910 a group headed by Joseph F. Darling, a former assistant district attorney of New York, got together at a conference and founded the Land Value Tax Party."

"I was named its candidate in the 1912 election. 'Darling's death in 1916 put a crimp to the party's activities in the next presidential campaign."

"But in 1920 we put up candidates in 16 states. The name of the party had been changed to the Single Tax Party, and Robert C. Macauley of Philadelphia was named the presidential candidate."

"We polled some 50,000 votes! But we are going to get many, many more this year."

The name was changed again. "For the Commonwealth Land Party," says Wallace, "better explains our idea than the 'Single Tax.' This party would free the land of the country from private ownership, and by renting it lift the burden of taxation from the people."

"All evils arising out of our unjust economic conditions," says its platform, "such as business depressions, hard times, unemployment, poverty and the fear of poverty, bad housing conditions and the crime, vice and diseases due to these conditions are the result of the private ownership of the earth and the appropriation of its products by the few."

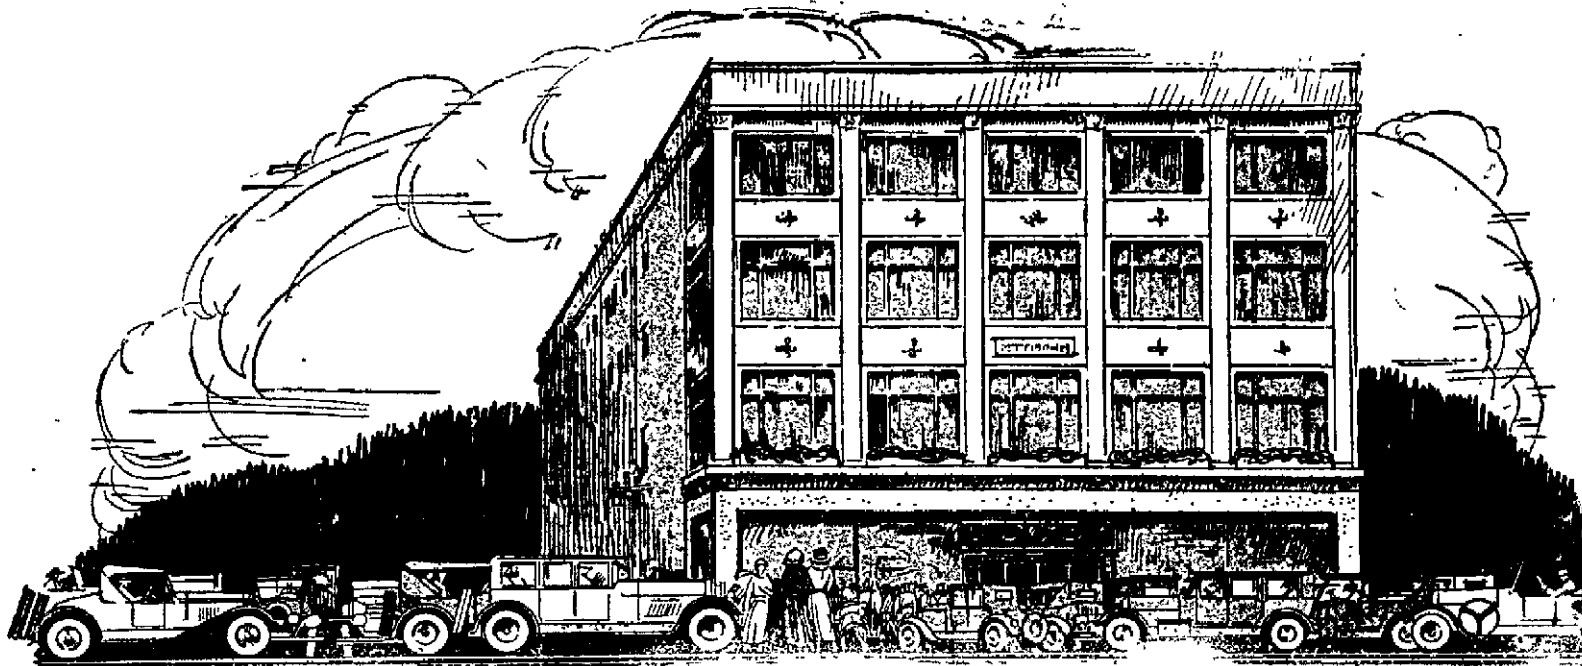

"War and strife, now and always due to economic maladjustment, would disappear with the elimination of private ownership of land, which has ever been the basis and the cause of all the world's economic troubles."
